CAPITALISM ARRAIGNED AS DANGER

Church Must Stem Tide or World Is Lost Says Churchman

M. E. CONFERENCE

Two Hundred Laymen and Ministers Hear Opening Address

EVANSTON, Ill., May 23.—The church must stem the tide of capitalism or civilization is doomed, Prof. John H. Gray, noted economic authority, declared today in opening the conference on Christianity and economic order here.

The conference, called by the Methodist Episcopal church, was attended by 200 laymen and ministers of the church. Bishop Francis J. McConnell, whose report to the Inter-Church World movement on labor conditions in the steel industry caused a sensation, presided.

Professor Gray declared the question of whether a firm stand by the church should lessen funds for its support was "beside the point."

"It is undesirable that the church should have funds if they are to be used to strengthen and support justice," he declared. Taking the situation in the four great basic industries of steel, coal, oil and railroads, Prof. Gray said:

"Social control must be exercised over those industries. Anti-trust laws have proven futile. Trusts never before were so numerous, powerful or injurious as today. Steel holds the key to the situation. More than half of the men in the steel industry still work the 12-hour day and Sunday labor has not been materially lessened. After every competing nation has come to an 8-hour day in this industry families representing from 500,000 to 750,000 persons are subject to this barbarous treatment.

"Such workers may want more schools, more churches, baths, but their souls cry for justice and preaching the gospel to them falls on deaf ears. About one-third of steel workers are receiving wages below a decent standard of living.

"If, as Judge Gary said, wages are determined by demand and supply, we should ask how much he has to do with fixing the demand and supply, and if his statement is correct, the church must insist that we control the demand and supply."

11 APPLICANTS FOR ADMISSION TO C. OF C.

Board of Directors to Consider Candidates at Meeting

The board of directors will vote into membership in the Chamber of Commerce 11 applicants at their regular weekly meeting and luncheon today.

Following is a list of the applicants for membership in the chamber:

Brand Cleaners (C. H. Lewis), 217 South Brand, cleaners and dyers.

California Tent and Awning Co. (F. T. Richardson, manager), 5506 Central avenue, Los Angeles, tents and awnings.

Chas. E. Clifford Co. (Chas. E. Clifford, president), 3808 South Park avenue, Los Angeles, tile, marble, woodstone, asbestic stucco.

Hudson-Bonney Lbr. Co. (Thos. H. Hudson), box 336, Burbank, lumber.

Hunt and Hunt (J. F. Hunt), 117 South Brand, furniture.

CHEVROLET CAR REPORTED STOLEN

A Chevrolet automobile belonging to A. C. Holcomb of 1120 Viola was stolen from 110 North Louise street at 10:30 yesterday morning. Later in the day this car was located by the Glendale police and taken to the city hall.

STATUTORY OFFENSE

Manuel Gallesie was arrested by the Glendale police yesterday, charged with a statutory offense. He was placed in tank No. 2 of station No. 1.

Day of Opportunity Must Be Grasped as It Presents Itself

The day of opportunity—that is the subject of James W. Foley's philosophical article this evening in "The Listening Post." He speaks of industry awakened and draws a lesson that it would be well for all of us to thoroughly consider. There is no place on this earth for the sloth and Mr. Foley says it in language that it is a privilege to read.

You will find Mr. Foley's philosophy and verse exclusively in this newspaper every evening.

Henry James touches on President Harding's recent appeal for "a commerce with a conscience," and says that if it could prevail it would change the complexion of the world. In his comments on the news of the day, also published exclusively in this paper, Mr. James writes on many topics, all of interest.

Dr. Frank Crane speaks of transmitting photographs by telegraph. Della Stewart sees many geniuses in the advertising field, and John Pilgrim, in his article, visits the old farm. Excellent editorials, paragraphs, poetry and all the other good features are to be found on the editorial page this evening. It is well worth reading.

MADRIGAL CLUB TO PARTICIPATE IN L. A. PROGRAM

To Sing at University of So. California, Under Federation Auspices

Glendale will be prominently represented in a big program to be given at the Bovard auditorium of the University of Southern California Saturday at 8:15 under the auspices of the education department of the federation of music clubs. A part of the program is to be furnished by the Madrigal club of this city, directed by Mrs. Charles A. Parker.

The Alhambra high school orchestra will play and there will be a dramatic number by students of the University of California, Southern Branch. Alfred Mirovich, pianist, will give a group of Russian numbers, and Charles Wakefield Cadman, composer-pianist, and Miss Margaret Messer, will give an illustrated group of Mr. Cadman's Indian songs.

It is expected that a large delegation of members of the parent and junior music clubs of Glendale will attend. Tickets can be secured through Mrs. Dora Gibson of the high school. The money realized from the concert will be used for the purchase of phonograph records to constitute a musical library for the federation.

BOXING CARNIVAL AT HI GYMNASIUM

Company M Announces It Will Stage Series of Good Bouts

When the bugler sounds "Mess Call" tonight at the boxing carnival and entertainment in the high school gymnasium by Company M, 160th infantry for the members and friends of the National Guard companies, everyone can fall in the mess line with the assurance that there will be enough eats for everyone.

Mess Sergeant Lowry Truitt has contracted for enough "hot dogs" to feed a regiment and France Henry of the Henry-Brown Beverage company has sent 15 gallons of Fru-ber-ree to the armory with his compliments to the guardsmen. This is a Glendale-made drink and has won a place in the hearts of the thirsty public.

The program as completed for the evening is as follows:

Radio concert by the Glendale Press radio station, which will be installed at the high school gymnasium.

"A Few Minutes of Vaudeville," by Neale Sprinkle and Joe Rhodes of Company M.

Wrestling exhibition by John Hackenschmidt and his training partner. This will be one of the features of the evening as Hackenschmidt is training at present for a match with Jim Thores.

"Wildcat" McGuire and Charles Wippert of Company M will put on a snappy four rounds of fistic argument.

Sergeant "Butch" Weetman will meet "Kid" Hutchison of the University of Southern California in a four-round debate with gloves.

The main event will be the heavyweight bout between First Sergeant Kenneth Wilde of Company M and First Sergeant Wesley Wright of Headquarters company for the light heavyweight title of the Third Battalion, 160th infantry.

The entire carnival is being staged by the Glendale companies of the National Guard and will be free to members of the guards and their friends. There will be a feed after the entertainment.

DECORATION DAY CALL IS ISSUED

All Fraternities and Organizations Are Summoned to Meet

COMMITTEE MEETS

Urge Full Representation of all Glendale Forces

At a meeting of the Memorial day committee held Monday night, an important letter was drafted to be sent to all civic bodies in Glendale, inviting them to participate in the Memorial day program on next Tuesday. A copy of the letter follows:

To the patriotic, civic and fraternal organizations of Glendale.

Dear friends: The committee on Decoration day is very anxious to make the celebration this year the greatest and best in the history of Glendale and you are earnestly requested to see that your organization is represented in the parade and in the ceremony at the cemetery.

The parade starts from Brand boulevard and Colorado at 1:30. Kindly notify Col. Fraser, grand marshal of the parade, Glendale 1300, how many members you will have marching or how many automobiles you will have in line. Do this as soon as possible so that the grand marshal may assign you a place.

Remember the time and the place—Brand and Colorado boulevards, 1:30 p. m., Tuesday, May 30.

Sincerely yours,
DECORATION DAY COMMITTEE
By Thomas M. Barrett, Chairman.
R. D. White, secretary.

The committee has selected Col. Fraser as grand marshal of the parade, but all other parts of the program are in charge of the G. A. R., headed by Comrade Robert Taylor. Heretofore the American Legion and veterans of the Spanish-American War have taken the lead, but this year the G. A. R. boys are going to have a chance to step forward and lead the day.

CITIZENS' CAMP PLANS TO BE PRESENTED

Lieut. W. M. Clare to Discuss Government's Plans at High

The citizens' military training camp will be the subject of a short address by Lieut. W. M. Clare to the boys of Glendale high school today at a special assembly. Lieut. Clare will accompany Capt. Thos. D. Watson, Sergeants Kenneth Wilde, Paul Holland, Roy Weetman and Paul Vissman of company, M, 160th infantry, and will talk to the boys on enlisting in the national guard.

The citizens' military training camp will be conducted at the Presidio, San Francisco, and is open to boys and men between the ages of 17 and 35 years. Applications to attend this camp must be made by June 1. James McBryde, commander of Glendale Post No. 127, American Legion, has application blanks for this camp, and Dr. G. Kaemmerling, with offices in the Cole & Dammerell building, will examine all applicants.

This camp, from July 6 to August 4, offers a vacation with all expenses paid, including railroad fare. There will be a combination of work and play that is beneficial to the young man.

Captain Watson told of the plans for the summer encampment of the Guards at Monterey this year. Sergeant Wilde told of the athletics in the National Guard companies. Sergeant Vissman talked to the boys on enlistment along the lines laid out by the regimental recruiting officer. The recruiting slogan this year is "It's buddy's brother's turn now."

After the talks the high school students of National Guard age were invited to enlist in Company M. The age of enlistment in the National Guard is from 18 years to 25 years. Former service men are particularly desirable as members of the guard, according to information received at the local armory from Captain Dicey, recruiting officer of the regiment.

CAMPERS ENDANGER THOM PROPERTY

Cameron Thom reported to the Glendale police yesterday that campers were making use of his property in the northern part of the city and that on this account there is grave danger of fire. Detective Sergeant Kincaid has been detailed to take care of this situation.

JINX HAUNTS CARS OF GLENDALIANS

Five Cars Damaged in as Many Mix Up Happenings

The jinx is still on the automobile drivers of this locality. It seems that no particular section is being favored with these public demonstrations. Those who participate do not show any preference as to where they "pile up." Each particular smashup is, apparently, an "impromptu" affair. The cause for each of these accidents seems to be the ever-present desire to beat the other fellow to it. Some motorists succeed in their ambitions along this line while others resort to the "piling up" stunt. Fortunately in the little melees of yesterday no one was injured—only the cars suffered.

A machine driven by Paul G. Genger, 1550 West Seventh street, Los Angeles, tried to run over a car that was operated by Paul J. Howard, the accident taking place at the corner of Glorietta and Verdugo at 11:30 o'clock yesterday. The radiator of the Genger machine was dislocated and the front fender was slightly disarranged. No one was hurt.

Mrs. J. M. Snyder of 345 Lincoln avenue, Pasadena, was driving her car across the corner of Colorado and Brand at 7 o'clock yesterday morning when a machine operated by a Mr. Pine, whose address is not given, came along. It seems that Mrs. Snyder stopped her machine and Mr. Pine, who was coming up behind, kept right on going. Something happened, and each driver is blaming it on the other fellow.

A car driven by John S. Robertson, 4455 Alger street, Los Angeles, "met up" with a machine driven by Harry Conrad, Parkdale avenue, Los Angeles, the accident taking place on San Fernando road at 5:15 o'clock last night. Both cars were slightly damaged.

A truck, the driver of which is unknown, evidently stepped on the wrong pedal in front of fire house No. 2 on Los Feliz road last night. The rear end of the truck struck a lighting post, breaking the globe.

MRS. MARIE YEOMAN

President, Los Angeles County W. C. T. U.

Your Army

The average male, civilian citizen, in the protected areas of his government, looks upon the army as something rather apart from his existence. Something big, heartless, rigid, incomprehensible—and therefore to be considered only when in holiday uniform it is marching through Main street. Then he has a vague, uneasy feeling that he lost something out of his life by failing to rise to the national aspiration, when opportunity came, and followed the flag.

In the civilian camp, opening at the Presidio, San Francisco, on July 6, the government is offering that opportunity to get behind the flag, to get a close-up view of the men in khaki, to get a clear idea of just what an army is, why it is, and how it operates.

Ordinarily, such a course of study would cost the student a large sum, if given by one of the educational institutions, in the form of lectures.

The absorption of the information in lectures would not have the value of actual close-up study.

The government offers its citizens a course of one month, free of all expense, beginning July 6 and ending August 4.

The offer includes free quarters, free uniform, free instruction and there is none of the strict discipline that goes with regulation army affairs.

Married men, single men and youths may all enter the camp and the course of instruction. There is no restriction. There need be no hesitancy because of the railroad fare. This will be allowed on the basis of five cents a mile to and from the camp.

All that the government wishes or expects in return is that its citizens will come to the camp, will study army affairs, will try to arrive at a just understanding of his protective forces, will take the army into the scope of his mentality. Understand it, believe in it and that dense ignorance which led to so much camp suffering in the world war will be eliminated.

There is, of course, no obligation of any sort. There will be no call upon these civilian students of the army now or in the future. They will return to their places in the ordinary pursuits of life with a better understanding of things military, able to speak from personal contact, to explain to those who had not gone the progress of the army through the various legislative processes that develop from time to time.

Before entering the camp there will be a brief medical inspection. It will not be as exact as that of the regular army. On passing the examination the civilian will be given his transportation and he can proceed to the camp, arriving there July 6. Of course he is free to leave camp on emergency at any time before the course closes, Aug. 4. Married men will be required to sleep at the camp. Their families, if they wish to take the vacation, can be accommodated just outside the Presidio.

The ages for admission to the camp begin at 17 and end at 35 years. Thus it starts with the high school boy and ends with the last years of the receptive activity of the average man.

The worst enemy of a democracy is ignorance. It is the undermining influence that breeds disloyalty, through sincere incomprehension rising out of half knowledge.

Such an opportunity to learn the detailed working of one of the administrative forces of the government should not be neglected by any earnest citizen who can without too great a sacrifice go to the camp.

Besides the reward of knowledge there will come a real relaxation, a change of thought that makes for health through the opening of new thought channels in the mind.

VICTORY IS WON BY THE W. C. T. U.

Mrs. Wheeler Reports to State Convention of Year's Successes

DEFEAT BEER PLOT

Membership Campaign Is Advocated and Support of Wright Bill

The address of President Mrs. Eva C. Wheeler, was the leading feature of today at the W. C. T. U. convention.

Mrs. Wheeler's address was scheduled for 3 o'clock and covered all of the activity of the organization.

In a most fitting manner, the great Fortieth annual convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of Southern California opened in the First Methodist church.

There was nothing militant about the sweet-faced women assembled for this conference and yet they have been crusaders for 15, 20 and some of them, forty years.

All who have read history know that a movement backed by religion is a serious thing to combat. It has a persistent vitality that can never be crushed. When these crusaders are not of our faith, when they are Mohammedans, for example, we call them fanatics, but we recognize the power of the impulse back of them.

So, it was entirely fitting that the Women's Christian Temperance Union, before it assembled in convention, should have the prayer service it did at 8:30, led by Mrs. Lucy Wilhoit. It was equally consistent that after the convention proper had been called to order by the state president, Mrs. Eva Craven Wheeler, it should be led by Mrs. Allie Simmons Wheeler in the song, "My Faith Looks Up to Thee." The Bible lesson and prayer by Mrs. Mary M. Carnes was a natural sequence. She plead for an entrance into that inner sanctuary of the soul, a shutting of the door on all the voices of the world to get the new vision of the Christ, to attain to that joy and peace, that preparation for work which prayer brings.

The platform, where the state president, Mrs. Wheeler and her fellow officers sat, had been made a bower of floral loveliness by the decoration committee composed of Mrs. Edith Glassey, chairman and Mesdames Pettit, P. B. Keim and George Lemon. Tall yuccas or "Candles of the Lord," were set around the platform with jars of white roses and crimson mountain lupin in between. Ivy outlined the altar rail, and the platform was edged with asparagus fern and roses.

As usual this first session was given to annual reports of state officers—Miss Ada B. Cummings, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Hattie C. Young, recording secretary; Mrs. Clara B. Sheldon, treasurer; Mrs. Jennie Cromer, auditor. There were also reports of branch secretaries. The last hour was given to a memorial service for such of the good crusaders as have died within the year, the solo of this service being sung by Mrs. Floyd Mercer.

This afternoon after the opening song and prayer there was a pretty ceremonial in recognition of the "Mothers and Daughters of the Temperance Crusade," of which Mrs. Maud Winbigler is president. The convention, standing at attention, saluted them as follows:

"The Temperance forces under the stars and stripes salute you!

White Ribboners of the world salute you!

For your faith, your courage and your sacrifice in the days of the Crusade.

Daughters of Crusaders everywhere salute you!

To you we pledge our love, our gratitude and our purpose to hold sacred and perpetuate the memory of the Temperance Crusade.

The Women's Christian Temperance of Southern California salutes you!

We will honor Crusaders and our God in loyal service for world-wide prohibition."

Mrs. Hartley Shaw of this city was the soloist of the afternoon and Mrs. Wheeler delivered her annual address, the big address of the convention which outlined the work of the past and prophesied the future with a stirring challenge to go forward and complete the work begun. County presidents were then called upon for reviews of their year's work.

THIEVES PLUNDER WASHER WILSON

Thieves entered the establishment of Washer Wilson, 140 South Brand boulevard, late Saturday night and got away with $75 in cash and a number of checks. Entrance was effected through the rear door and the money was found in the desk. Up to the time of going to press no trace of the criminals have been found.

Sacramento Turns Clock Backward

SACRAMENTO, May 23.—Sacramento today turned back the calendar 73 years and for the next ten days will be a roarin' mining camp of the gold rush days.

The "Days of '49" celebration—the city's attempt to revive for a time the romance and spirit of the time when gold was washed from river sands and spent in gambling halls—opened at 9:30 a. m. when "General Sutter," impersonated by Hobart Bosworth, actor, landed on the banks of the Sacramento river and fought his way against hordes of Indians to Sutter's fort on the outskirts of the city.

General Sutter hardly caught his breath until the second big event of the day was scheduled—the appearance of the first locomotive. It was the "C. P. Huntington," the first locomotive in California, and at its throttle as it puffed through the city's streets after years of idleness was John Lonagren of Philadelphia, and beside him, Tom O'Connell of Sacramento, as fireman.

Some fifty years ago these two had made their daily bread as engineer and fireman of the C. P. Huntington. Now O'Connell lives modestly in Sacramento and Lonagren is a wealthy manufacturer.

During all the pageantry the streets were crowded with visitors and the people of Sacramento—the latter garbed in the dress of "Forty-niners."

Sacramento's male citizens wore red flannel shirts, blue overalls, broad brimmed miner's hats and on their chins waved whiskers of varying degrees of luxuriance, grown during weeks of watchful waiting.

Flappers were extinct. Hoop skirts and pantalettes denied even a peep at dimpled knees. Rouge remained on the dressing tables.

The entire city had adopted the costume.

Only a few of the men who had actually dug the gold and bucked the faro bank in the "Days of '49" were found after weeks of search by those in charge, but they were in attendance.

First among them came Barney Fox and William Harden, who live in the mountains of Tuolumne. Each is aged 102.

"We chew, drink when we can get it, and, by golly, I can saw as much wood in a day as you can," Fox told a reporter who sought to interview him. "The only reporter I ever knew was Mark Twain," he said. "I saw him write the 'Jumpin' Frog of Calaveras.'"

And occupying a place of honor, of course, was Hans Langseth of North Dakota, owner of the world's greatest beard—length 17 feet. He held sway as King Whiskerino, patron saint of Sacramento's whiskered citizenry.

CREDIT MEN HEAR OF CIVILIAN CAMP

Lieut Clare Addresses Association on Advantages of Attendance

The Merchants' Credit association met at the regular luncheon at the chamber of commerce Monday noon. Forty-two members were present and Judge Emery presided.

Lieut. W. M. Clare of Ross field, Arcadia, gave a brief talk, urging the merchants to cooperate with the government in securing applicants for attendance at the summer military training camp, to be held at the Presidio, San Francisco, July 6 to August 4.

The matter of keeping the stores of Glendale open certain nights of the week with a view to securing at least a part of the trade now going to Los Angeles was discussed and the majority seemed to think that Saturday night was the only evening they could keep open with any financial advantage. However, a survey is to be made and it will be determined later just what changes, if any, will be made in the hours of the local stores.

It was decided by vote to invite City Manager Reeves to be present at the next regular meeting of the association to make a report covering the cost and service of the present city rubbish and garbage collection contract.

S. F. Bell of the Wilson-Bell Hardware company, one of the new members, was present for the first time and was given a hearty welcome.

J. Sims, a new arrival in Glendale, was present as the guest of Dr. R. V. Hogue and acknowledged with appropriate remarks his introduction to the association.

A large committee, headed by Walter C. Page, is making extensive W. C. Page, is making extensive picnic which is to be held some time this summer and which the committee hopes to make one of the best "booster" picnics ever held by any Glendale organization.

THE WEATHER

Southern California: Tonight and Wednesday fair, except cloudy or foggy in morning, near coast. Continued warm in the interior.

Los Angeles and vicinity: Partly cloudy tonight and Wednesday.

HUMAN FLY TO CLIMB CITY WALL

Bill Strothers to Give Exhibition of Daring in Glendale

TO SCALE BUILDING

Time and Place to Be Announced in The Press

Death means nothing to Bill Strother, the "human spider," who is coming to Glendale on Thursday night at 6:30 p. m. to scale the highest buildings in town. Not only will he scale these buildings but after reaching the top he will stand on his head and walk around the ledge on his hands. Strother has been secured to give an exhibition in Glendale by the Glendale Daily Press. The buildings he will climb are to be announced in tomorrow's Glendale Daily Press.

While the crowds are waiting for Strother to prepare for his climb his manager, Arthur Raymond Hill will entertain by singing his famous song, "Buckwheat Cakes." Hill is a former vaudeville star and gives a performance that is well worth listening to.

Strother, who is 24 years old, was born in Stantonsburg, N. C., and started his career as a climber in Petersburg, Va., some eight years ago, when he climbed the highest building in that city as an advertising stunt.

The highest buildings will not stop the "spider." While climbing the Belvidere hotel in Baltimore, Md., he felt that the climb was too tame and in order to give the crowd more thrills he made the ascent with one hand behind his back.

Climbing the front of a hotel is the stunt that delights the "spider." When he gets on the face of a hotel there is no end of the tricks he performs. In Los Angeles he climbed the Rosslyn hotel, and stood on his head on window sills, hung by one hand from the edge of the cornice, walked along the ledge on his hands, and other breath-taking stunts.

Strother has had but one accident in his career as a climber. While climbing the Takanasse hotel in Long Branch, N. J., the "spider" fell from the top of the eight-story building and only saved himself from death by catching himself over a projecting cornice on the second floor. He broke his arm, a kneecap in two places and an ankle.

One of the best stunts performed by Strother is riding a bicycle around the ledge of a building after having climbed to the top. He will do this stunt in Glendale.

Just before the exhibition Strother and his manager will solicit the crowd for contributions on behalf of the exhibition.

KNOX TO SPEAK AT CITY HALL

George H. Knox, efficiency expert, will address the city employes Wednesday evening at o'clock in the council chamber. His talk will be on efficiency in regard to their line of work and the public is cordially invited to attend.

SIDEWALK SKATING IS NUISANCE

Miss Laura Payne of 1439 East California avenue complained the Glendale police yesterday afternoon against boys skating on the sidewalks. An officer was detailed to look into the matter.

JINGLING JAZZ OF THE NEWS

By Bert Marple

A banquet of white ribboners is on the card tonight,
Mayor Robinson will jolly the along;
The auto jinx is still at large—the speeder is the goat,
While Mrs. Payne says boys are doing wrong.

Cam Thom vows that the campers are a menace to this town
And Mrs. Mottern says Glendale has grown;
The human fly will soon arrive he'll scale the buildin here,
We're satisfied to let him alone.

A radio for every home says Bradbury, it's here,
While Mrs. Wheeler makes convention bow;
The business women feed tonight up at Verdugo Woods,
First National employes have chow.

Some credit men met yesterday tell their joys and woes,
The Penlands draw an heir that's fine, I'll guess;
The bus line talk is up again just what is being done
You'll know if you will read the Glendale Press.

UNIQUE BUILDING ON WINDSOR RD.

Radio Phone in Each of the Apartments Which Are Cleverly Designed

What will probably be one of the most unique structures in Glendale is the bungalow apartment building that is being constructed at the corner of Glendale avenue and Windsor road by G. R. Broadbury, who is now living at 732 North Maryland avenue. This building differs from the ordinary bungalow court in that all of the apartments are located in the one building and that all of the apartments face on the street. The building is being erected in the form of an L, each wing of which has a street frontage of 120 feet, and a depth of 30 feet.

In this building there will be eight apartments, each of which will contain a living room, dining room, bedroom, kitchen with nook, bath room and dressing room. Built-in features of all kinds will be located in these apartments, which will be models of convenience. One of the features of the court will be a central water service, which will furnish hot water to all of the apartments night and day. A new departure planned for this bungalow apartment will be a radio phone in every apartment. The architecture of the building will be along Spanish lines, with stucco exterior and all the "Spanish" trimmings and characteristic features. There is a patio at the front of the building and there will be a garage for each apartment. The construction work on this building was started April 17 and will be finished about August 1.

One very startling feature about this bungalow apartment will be that families with children are welcome. In fact the proprietor says he will make a specialty of families in which there are children. Not only will families of this character be welcome but especial arrangements will be made in order that they may enjoy themselves every minute of every day. For instance, different sorts of amusement features will be constructed, such as swings, sand pits, sliding boards, see-saws, clock golf, etc. It is claimed that the children will have absolutely no kick coming with the way they are treated. The lot on which this building is being erected was purchased by Mr. Bradbury and M. M. Brown.

This bungalow apartment will cost about $30,000 to erect. It was designed by Mr. Bradbury and the architectural work was done by Kemper Nomland. In front of this court on both streets will be a 47-foot lawn, with flowers, etc. When finished this will be one of the most attractive improvements in Glendale.

Mr. Bradbury is a building-booster that is sure to help put any city on the map. For the past two years he has been located at Long Beach, to which place he went from Philadelphia, where he was in the real estate business. While in Long Beach he constructed more than $200-000 worth of buildings.

"Two years ago," said Mr. Bradbury, this morning, "I came to California on a sick man's vacation, and I have been here ever since. I saw at a glance that there was nothing in the east that could compare with the wonderful growth of California. I think the growth of Glendale is just as substantial as is the growth of Southern California itself. I am looking for Glendale avenue to be converted into a business section and to some day be lined with business houses. The same is true with Verdugo road. What I say is 'Keep you eye on Glendale,' for it will take as much growth during the next two years as it has during the two years just past."

The Once Over

WATCHMAN, WHAT OF THE CORSET?

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Is the corset going?

Is this to be a Figureless Year?

Will it soon be Good Form to be in Bad Form?

Are Shapeless Weeks in the offing?

These are serious questions. Serious questions are always popping up to complicate conditions in America. No sooner do we apparently solve all the major problems having to do with business and the home, and appear to be headed straight for peace, prosperity and normalcy, than up bobs some new serious question.

Now it's the corset. The old-fashioned rubber-band garter is beginning to come back, according to the stylists. Everywhere the tendency among the fair sex seems to be to throw away something and put on something less.

Just what a garter has to do with a corset is a matter for no mere man to fathom, but 'tis reliably reported that general adoption of the old-fashioned "wristlet" garter means the discarding of the corset. All of which is taken as meaning a great menace to two great American industries—the corset and bedroom furniture trades.

If the American woman stops wearing corsets the corset shops will, obviously, have to suspend business, and, of course, there will be no further use for bedroom chairs, since there will be no corsets to throw over the back of 'em.

The corset manufacturers are visibly alarmed. There are between 40,000,000 and 45,000,000 women in the United States. Over 66 per cent of them are "consistent corset wearers," according to a prominent corset magnate. The other 34 per cent are accounted for as follows:

Twenty per cent live in places like Canarsie, Oil ity, Wappinger Falls and Dodge City. (They don't get out much, either.)

Ten per cent think their husbands are blind.

Two per cent work in Al Woods shows or dress as if they ought to.

The other two have figures no corset can aid.

A "consistent corset wearer" is a woman who wears corsets because she has contracted the habit and who has passed the point where she can wear 'em or leave 'em alone.

Over 30,000,000 women in this country wear corsets every day. These are plain figures—or would be if they went around without corsets.

Now every woman has at least two pairs of corsets. That makes 60,000,000 corsets in this country. And, as Ignatius Innbadd would say, "that's a lot of corset."

If all these corsets could be placed end to end they would—well, frankly, they would look like the very devil.

That isn't the way to place corsets. Nor would they show that way to the best effect. And after you placed them that way, think of the job lacing them! 'Sridiculous!

Thirty-five per cent of the corset wearers are stouts, near-stouts, or stylish stouts, according to estimates. The corset makers feel that this quota will never forsake them. Stout woman's place, they know, is in the corset.

All things considered, the corset makers incline to be optimistic. The garter craze, they hold, is a mere fad and will pass out after the husbands have gazed at their wives a few times and remarked, "Whatzamattah, Ella? You're all out of alignment."

A rubber-band garter may hold up a stocking, but it takes a corset to hold up a form.

The president of one of the five largest corset companies in the country announced the other day that exhaustive tests have been made with stenographers which proved that a girl in a well-designed well-fitted corset was in infinitely better shape at the end of a day than an ungirdled sister. "Better shape" is good.

HOME NURSING and HEALTH HINTS

By M. JESSIE LEITCH

CONCERNING FUMIGATION

Terry Hill was recovering from a mild attack of scarlet fever. Terry lived in a house that was full of sunshine and fresh air most of the time, which is a very good thing for any one who is ill.

But Terry's mother, who was a most conscientious woman, was anxious that she should not be responsible for more cases of scarlet fever in the neighborhood. So she worried.

In spite of frequent reassurance from the doctor, Mrs. Hill was afraid that other cases might develop, and she set her heart upon doing the right thing in the matter of fumigation, in spite of the fact that Terry had had a very mild case indeed.

It had been a particularly sunny winter, and Terry's bedroom had been flooded, during his illness, with sunshine and fresh air.

Doctor Explains to Mother

His eyes had been protected against strong direct lights, and his small body kept warm when the windows were thrown wide open to the clear cold air, and altogether Terry had regarded his illness as a lark. And all the time the maximum of sunlight had streamed into the spotless room in which he lay.

The doctor explained to Terry's mother that the present theory regarding the need of fumigation is that if the right kind of precaution has been taken against contamination during an illness fumigation is not necessary in a room to which sunlight and fresh air can be admitted freely.

Science has discovered that contageon is carried less by the air than by flies and other insects. That frequently the secretions of the human body are responsible for contagion. Still it was agreed that the room should be fumigated. Formaline was decided upon instead of sulphur, because the latter is injurious to metals, colors and fabrics and does not kill spores. Terry properly bathed, shampooed and clothed in fresh garments, was transferred to another room.

In the room he had occupied all drawers and cupboards were opened, the bedclothes were spread across lines strung up in the room, and the mattress was placed on end. All surfaces must be exposed to the fumes of the gas during fumigation.

Then the cracks around windows and doors, and the keyholes were sealed by pasting strips of white over them. White paper was used because colored paper or newspaper would have discolored the wood-work.

Room Sealed Twelve Hours

This being done, a large, low, shallow pan was placed in the center of the floor. The floor was protected with papers. Because the room was of moderate size, containing about 1,000 cubic feet, Terry's mother had procured one-half liter of formaline, forty per cent, and one and one-half pounds of quicklime.

The lime was placed in the pan. The formaline was poured over it. The heat generated by the slacking of the lime caused the volatilization of the formaline, and the resulting gas fumigated the room and its contents.

The room was sealed twelve hours, then thrown open to sunlight and fresh air, after which it was thoroughly scrubbed with clean hot water.

It was only then that Terry's mother ceased to worry about contamination.

PRESBYTERIANS ATTACK MOVIE

Censorship Urged by Board of Temperance at Des Moines

DES MOINES, Ia., May 23.—Censorship of the movies was advocated, the cigarette was condemned, prohibition applauded and prison reform urged, in the annual report of the Presbyterian Board of Temperance and Moral Welfare, submitted to the Presbyterian general assembly today by Dr. Charles Scanlon of Pittsburg, Pa., general secretary.

Dr. Scanlon's report recognized the motion picture as a national influence scarcely second to the printing press. It blamed the selfishness of film controllers for "preying on the weaknesses and prejudices of the public."

"The characters of those presented to young people as heroines and heroes," said Dr. Scanlon, "are often such that an intelligent, worthy parent would admit these persons to their homes, yet millions of young people of both sexes are permitted to visit the places where these people are conspicuous figures. We favor intelligent, discriminating, state and federal censorship which shall have due regard for the sensibilities, responsibilities and affection of parents for their children, reverence for religion, and which will do its duty unflinchingly without fear or favor."

Dr. Scanlon warned American citizens that the menace of the cigarette evil was nearly incomprehensible. America spent last year, he said, $800,000,000 for cigarettes alone, and $2,000,000,000 for tobacco in all forms. He said that Americans spent for support of all churches, Protestant and Catholic, only one-sixth of what they spent for smoking and chewing. Church members themselves, he charged, spent for tobacco 80 per cent of what they spent on church support.

Millions of children smoke cigarettes, he says, and he charges that the tobacco interests exploit feminine smoking in public places, through "certain young women," who thus get their expensive lunches paid for. The board of temperance and moral welfare, he said, is conducting a wide and vigorous campaign against the use of tobacco in all forms by all people.

Dr. Scanlon warned American citizens that more than 30 organizations are aggressively working to repeal or modify the Volstead act. He urged all law-abiding citizens to watch primaries and elections and elect worthy men, especially to congress and the senate, to combat the liquor traffic.

He warned the nation of the spread of drug slavery, which, he says, has invaded the families of the respectable, the intelligent and well-to-do, as well as securing victims in vice haunts and poverty's hovels, neither city nor country being free from it.

SIX DIVISIONS OF PRESBYTERIANS IS PLANNED

Reorganization of Boards to Be Recommended at Meeting

CAMBRIDGE, Ohio, May 23.—Reorganization of the various boards of the United Presbyterian church into six divisions will be recommended to the 64th general assembly of that church, which convenes here tomorrow.

The revised report of the committee of eleven which will be submitted to the assembly, provides for grouping the church's various agencies as follows: The board of education and publication; the board of home missions; the board of foreign missions; the women's board; the board of ministerial relief and the board of promotion, and coordination.

Under the proposed reorganization the boards of education and publication and home missions would have 21 members each, chosen from not less than six presbyteries. The other boards would consist of 15 members each, chosen from not less than four presbyteries.

The terms of office of the members of each board will be limited to three years, under the plan, one-third of the members to be elected each year. Appointments by the boards of secretaries and other employes would be subject to confirmation by the general assembly.

The report of the committee of eleven also includes some recommendations regarding duties of the board members. No change, however, is contemplated in departments or duties of the women's board or the board of foreign missions.

COLD BLUE FLAME FOUND BY HARVEY IS MARVEL

Commercialization of Discovery May Take Many Years

PHILADELPHIA, May 22.—Dr. E. Newton Harvey of Philadelphia, a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, and now a professor at Princeton University, has succeeded in bringing from the bottom of the ocean something that in a different form Benjamin Franklin, another Philadelphian, brought from the clouds.

Where Franklin with his kite brought about the eventual discovery of the electric light, Dr. Harvey, with a fishing net, has brought about the discovery of "cold light"—light that shines continually with no more than a 1-1000th of a degree rise in temperature, and with no "powerhouse" but the air and its oxygen.

In an interview with the United Press Dr. Harvey consented not only to explain the nature of the discovery that has turned the eyes of the scientific world upon him, but to demonstrate the subject.

He took several pinches of a coarse, granulated substance and put them into one of the round-bottomed flasks in his laboratory. This was in an almost entirely dark room.

He then held the flask under a faucet and allowed about a glassful of distilled water to run over the powder. There commenced immediately to glow a clear bluish light that lit up the professor's form with a ghostly radiance. Nearby objects—a row of test-tubes, a Bunsen burner, a cupboard full of chemical supplies, and bottles in which strange and dimunitive fish lay quiet in a bath of alcohol were cast into prominence. Throughout the room, with its seeming confusion of tubing, retorts, flasks, scales and records there spread an unearthly blue that had a twilight intensity.

In the flask itself there appeared points of a blue light that looked like little stars forming part of a fairy firmament. As the scientist shook the container these points merged with the body of the light, and the entire phenomenom increased in intensity.

After several minutes had passed the light continued to glow as intensely as at the beginning. Dr. Harvey explained that he had succeeded in keeping the glow alive for more than 24 hours, and that he was confident he was on the trail of the method for making it entirely continuous.

The exhibition was wonderful in itself as a vision. But the real value of the discovery was detected when he had his interviewer place a hand on the flask. It was found then to be cold to the touch. While the light had been shining for some time there was not the slightest heat. It was this about the experiment that the world of science hails with hope. It seems a chance to abolish the electric light globe, with its heat and wasted energy, and to substitute a substance which will give light and nothing more and that will give it cheaply and continuously.

The substance that Dr. Harvey used was composed of two proteins taken from a diminutive shell-fish that is found by the million in the sea near the west coast of Japan and is called the cypridina. It has the same substance in it that is found in fireflies, but in greater quantity. What makes this substance give off light is the discovery made by Dr. Harvey, who in the experiment described above had duplicated the process. It consists of adding oxygen to the protein known as "luciferin."

Several more years probably will be spent in research before the light can be proved to have a commercial possibility. It is now in the realm of pure science.

There are at least forty or fifty animals and insects that give off light, or luminescene, that has no heat, and it was in the study of these that Dr. Harvey sought to find the answer to a problem that has perplexed scientists for decades. He concluded that if he could find what made the firefly flicker, he would have the formula for creating cold lights—that radiance produced by light rays between the wave lengths of infra red and those of ultafa violet.

The phosphorencence that is found in decaying meat and other putrescent substances was the very first with which the doctor tried to work, but he found it could not be used in sufficient quantity to be of much use.

Not the Solution

He then traveled into the fields and byways about Princeton and collected fireflies, which he brought into his laboratory. The task of finding in these diminutive insects the sources of their light proved too much for him. It was then he thought of the fireflies of Japan, that are so large and numerous that the Japanese collect them and put them in cages. At a certain time of the year there are festivals at which these imprisoned insects are taken on lakes, amid scenes of indescribable beauty, and released in swarms of brillance.

Accordingly he traveled to Japan, stopping at the Dutch East Indies to collect some specimens of a little fish found only there, known as the photoblepheron, that has a large luminescent organ below its eyes that shines continuously with a green light, and which is covered at times by a lid like that of an eye. This fish proved of little use, and so did the fireflies of Japan.

Dr. Harvey stopped in Japan at Uodzu, near Toyama, where facilities for his work were provided, and upon giving up work with fireflies turned to luminous squid, a small fish that has eight tentacles like those of an octopus, and in two of which are luminous organs. They are known as Hotaru-Ika, or firefly-squid. They did not prove satisfactory.

Other sea material brought to him was the Sypridina, a crustacean about an eighth of an inch long, that lives at the bottom of the sea and comes to the surface at night. These he found to have a proportionately great amount of luminous material, and to be obtainable in such numbers that he could make effective progress.

In them he found two similar proteins, luciferin and lucipherase. Each was composed of carbon, hydrgen, oxygen, nitrogen and sulphur, though in exactly what combination has not been discovered. When the luciferin combined with oxygen it shone, turning into a substance called oxluciferin. The lucipherase then acted to take out the oxygen from the oxyluciferin. This permitted the original luciferin to repeat the oxidizing and shining process.

The continuous oxidation, or lighting of the luciferin, and its accompanying "reduction," or deoxidation, has been produced by Dr. Harvey by the use of metal, known as catalyst, that acts as the lucipherase does in the animal. In his combination the lucipherase acts to help along the oxidation.

When Dr. Harvey has found how to make luciferin without resorting to fishing, and has increased the intensity of its light, the problem of commercial and cold light will have been solved.

PANORAMA OF WAR DUE IN NEW YORK

PARIS, May 23.—Ocean transportation experts are puzzled by a problem raised by the acquisition of an American organization of the immense war panorama known as the Pantheon de la Guerre, which is to be taken bodily from Paris to New York for exhibition.

Not since the transfer from Egypt of the obelisk which is now in Central park, has such a job been tackled.

The Pantheon de la Guerre, which consists of a canvas nearly 150 yards long and about 18 yards high, showing six or seven thousand portraits of war chiefs and allied statesmen standing out in startling relief against a background of the battlefields of France, has been purchased for a tour of the world beginning in New York.

The canvas cannot be cut in pieces and put together on arrival. It must be shipped in one piece, entwined around an immense wooden roller. Not many steamships have facilities for such a feat of transportation and when the Pantheon goes on tour in the United States, special railroad cars will have to be built for it.

Since the announcement was made that the famous canvas is to leave Paris there has been an outcry in the press against the export of what is considered a great work of art, but investigation has demonstrated that of the million or so persons who paid two francs to see it since the opening of the Pantheon, just after the armistice, less than 100,000 were French, the vast majority of the visitors being Americans, who went to see Pershing, Liggett, Allen, President Wilson, Ambassador Herrick and the other notable figures who took a direct part in the great war.

PACIFIC COAST FAN DAY MAY 27

SEATTLE, WASH., May 23.—The piece de resistance of coast track and field athletics will be served May 27 when the Pacific Coast and northwest fans will gather here for the joint coast conference and northwest conference meets in the stadium.

This meet will be the culmination of one of the most successful track seasons the coast has experienced in years. Practically every school and college in both conferences has developed a strong team, with the University of Washington and the University of California regarded as high favorites. Both Stanford and California, however, will have their star performers and coaches in the east, competing in the I. C. A. A. A. meet at Cambridge, on this date.

MISSOURIANS PICNIC

All who ever lived in the "show me" state are called to meet under the auspices of the Missouri Association of Los Angeles County for a jolly picnic, all day, Saturday, May 27, 1922, in Bixby Park, Long Beach. Come as early as you can and spend the day with friends. We will have county registers and headquarters so you can find the old neighbors even with thousands present. There will be a brief program opening about 2 o'clock, songs, short talks. The main purpose will be to have a good time and let you do the talking. We want to see all the tourists and visitors from the old home. Bring your baskets well filled. Coffee will be served free to all who buy the souvenir badges. Many prizes will be offered. Come on and see which you can win. Each one who learns of this is asked to pass the word along to others.

Further information may be had of C. H. Parsons, secretary of the Federation of State Societies, office in the Continental National bank, Main and Ninth streets, Los Angeles. Phone 10261, Where the great Missouri State register may be seen.

Every man's wife's relatives expect more of him than he expects of himself.

PRIMA DONA TO GIVE A SOIREE

An interesting musical event will be the soiree given by Mme. Felicia Romanowska, the famous Polish prima donna soprano and vocal teacher of Glendale and Los Angeles, at her home, 405 West Windsor road, next Saturday evening. She will present a number of her artist pupils, among whom will be Mme. Theodora Winsniewska, coloratura soprano, a worthy rival of Galli-Curci; Mme. Marion Dunn, another much promising coloratura soprano; Mme. Hope Leigh, a highly accomplished lyric soprano; Mme. Friedman, dramatic soprano; Miss Iva Hanners, lyric soprano the coming star and pride of America, and Miss Wanda Stachowicz, a young and promising soprano of Aprrance. Dr. K. O. A. Markiewicz, a specialist of Los Angeles, will give an enterest-in gtalk on India. A number of Los Angeles and Glendale music lovers will be present.

REV. M'QUILKIN BRINGS MESSAGE

The Rev. Robert C. McQuilkin of Philadelphia, brought a fine message to the young people of Glendale last night in the Presbyterian church. Mr. McQuilkin is conducting the young people's "Victorious Life Conference" in Glendale this week.

The message last evening was the opening message and a foreground to the personal work classes which Mr. McQuilkin will conduct. He illustrated the fact that sin is darkness and there is no color in blackness, so there can be no light. Righteousness is light and all the colors are in whiteness, so that white is light. Black was before the acceptance of Christ, while white was after the acceptance. Between this change is the blood of Christ which cleanseth us from all sin, he said.

There was a fine turnout but a much better one is expected tonight.

MAE MURRAY WINS IN "FASCINATION"

All the romance and flavor of old Spain have been kept intact in Mae Murray's latest photoplay, "Fascination," presented by Robert Z. Leonard, and shown for the first time today at the Glendale theatre. It is the most lavish and elaborate of this famous Metro star's pictures, and presents a whirlwind succession of thrilling and exciting experiences. The direction by Robert Z. Leonard is flawless, and the play is undoubtedly one of the most noteworthy of the year.

In "Fascination" Miss Murray plays the part of Dolores De Lisa, born of a Spanish father and an American mother. Resenting the close supervision of the aunt with whom she lives, Dolores slips out to join the throng going to the bullfight.

How we pity the woman who is the father of ten or eleven children!

Study Mental Hygiene

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc.

(Copyright, 1922, by The Associated Newspapers.)

The subject of mental hygiene has of late been a special theme for newspaper discussion in various cities, because of numerous meetings held under the auspices of the National Committee for Mental Hygiene. But it is to be feared that many people, owing to a widespreda and sadly mistaken notion, hav paid nothing like the heed to such discussion all should pay.

Mental hygiene, they have taken for granted, is of no personal concern to them. It is something that has to do with feeble-mindedness and insanity. They are neither feeble-minded nor insane, so why should they bother about it?

And, indeed, mental hygiene has very much to do with feeble-mindedness and insanity. But also it has to do with the health, happiness and efficiency of every human being, the mentally normal as well as the mentally disordered. This makes it of universal significance.

The world, as everybody knows, abounds in people who, without being mentally defective or aberrant, are not making the headway in business life they had hoped to make. Also it abounds in people who suffer in a marked degree from character peculiarities, so that they are perhaps excessively timid, perhaps excessively irritable, perhaps given to excessive worry.

All this causes them to lose a great deal that, they are instinctively aware, life should yield to them. It breeds in thme discontent, restlessness, perhaps profound depression of mind.

And often—though this is something they may not appreciate with anything like the clearness of their appreciation of the unhappiness that besets them—their discontent, restlessness and depression are due to nothing more than ignorance of the laws of right thinking. They are paying a penalty in decreased efficiency and in misery of mind akin to the penalty of bodily ill health imposed for violations of the laws of right living.

Though, for that matter, bodily ill health in the way of functional nervous disorders may itself be due to nothing more than faulty thinking. So that there is ample reason all should learn just what the laws of right thinking are.

Study of mental hygiene would give the necessary knowledge. And not a few exponents of mental hygiene have been at pains, through writing simple handbooks on the subject and through giving public lectures on it, to make such study available for all who would profit from it.

How to conquer worry, doubt and indecision, how to become more courageous and self-reliant, how to develop emotional cntrol in general, how to grow in will power, in reasoning power—these and like themes find a place in the subject matter of mental hygiene as truly as do such problems as the prevention and care of outright mental disease. If the latter are not of immediate personal concern to everybody the former most assuredly are.

Study mental hygiene, then, as an aid to greater well-being both of mind and of body. If uncertain as to the means whereby you best may study it, write to me in the care of this newspaper for a list of helpful books. I have prepared such a list, which I shall be glad to send to all who enclose a stamped and addressed envelope for my answer to their inquiries.

W. C. T. U. LOSES MANY LEADERS BY DEATH IN LAST YEAR, PRESIDENT WHEELER REPORTS TO CONVENTION

The memorial to the departed leaders of the W. C. T. U. was given very beautifully by State President Eva C. Wheeler, at the close of her annual report this afternoon. She said:

Six of our State leaders, tour from the State Executive and two former State Editors and many from the local and county organizations, have been promoted to the Heavenly Mansions during the past year and today we pause, we miss their loved faces. We are already realizing the loss of these patient seed-sowers of yesterday.

We tenderly place the flowers that express love and gratitude, flowers that speak to us of life eternal that we shall enjoy with our comrads that have gone before. We place the white bows that remind us of "the tie that binds our hearts in Christian love."

To the bereaved hearts we would extend loving sympathy and pray the dear Father that the added tie in the Father's house may bring each nearer to Himself. Our loved ones are not dead, they are at home with Jesus.

Why do we call them lost?
Because we miss them from
Our onward road?

God's unseen Angel
O'er our path-way
Loked on us all and loving these the most
Straight way relieved them from Life's weary load.

Like a weary and worn out traveler
That sighs for the day light's close
He knew that they were longing for home
And its sweet repose.

So he called them from their labors
E'er the shadows around them crept
And silently watching o'er them
He gave His Loved ones sleep."

The program for Wednesday and for the remainder of the convention is as follows:

At 8:30 Wednesday morning the convention's operations will open with a prayer meeting led by Mrs. Mary M. Carnes. At 9 o'clock the convention will be called to order. After a song, Mrs. Kate Cleaves will conduct a Bible lesson and prayer, this to be followed by reports of the official board and executive committee, on how the budget has been used. At 11:30 will be school of methods, and at 12:30 noontide prayer.

The afternoon session will open at 2 o'clock with song and prayer led by Mrs. Hester Griffith Miller. Departmental radiograms from the W. C. T. U. Broadcasting stations will then be read, which will be as follows: Aerial wave, tuning, code signals, sparks, short wave signals, continuous wave, radio relay and far call. Solo by Mrs. Charles A. Parker, which will be followed by an offering, and listening in on a radio message by Dr. C. Elwood Nash. Announcements, adjournment.

At 7:30 Wednesday evening the delegates will attend the various church prayer meetings. At 8:30 will be the diamond medal contest. After introduction of Mrs. Mary M. Haddow, medal contest superintendent, the recitations will be given. After a solo by Mrs. J. A. Cole a collection will be taken, after which Mrs. Fannie Marple Retts will sing. An oration will then be given by Rev. M. Martin Patch, state superintendent of anti-narcotics of the young people's branch. The awarding of the diamond medal to the winning contestant will then be held, after which will be benediction.

Thursday morning the convention will open with prayer at 8:30 with Mrs. Hattie V. King leading. Convention called to order at 9 o'clock. A song will be followed with a Bible lesson, and The Journal. Reports of the appropriation and credentials committees will then be given, after which there will be a prayer by Mrs. Anna Hill. At 10 o'clock election of officers will be held, this to be followed by reports of the trustees of the Southern California home and the board of trustees of the W. C. T. U. in Southern California. Subscriptions will then be taken for the year book of 1922-23, after which will be prayer and adjournment.

At 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon the session will be opened with prayer by Mrs. Martha Drawbaugh, after which will be a contest, including five-minute speeches by state lecturers and organizers. An address, "Woman's Part in World Disarmament," will be given by Mrs. Catherina Philips Edson. Offering and solo by Miss Isabel Isgrig. At 3:45 there will be a campaign hour, when the following will speak: Dr. T. S. Montgomery, Miss Marie C. Brehm, Hon. Charles H. Randall and Rev. A. B. Smart. Introduction of visitors and adjournment.

Thursday evening, 7:30, devotions, Mrs. Helen M. Stoddard, followed by music by the First Methodist male quartet. Address, "The Delinquent Woman—Everybody's Problem," by Miss Blanch Moore superintendent of the Industrial Farm for Women at Sonoma. The offering will be followed by a vocal solo by Mrs. A. M. Draper. Address, "Shall It Be Absolute Sobriety and Law Enforcement?" by Rev. Robert Shuler of Los Angeles. Benediction.

TELEGRAPHIC TRACK MEET OF GIRLS

LONG BEACH, Calif., May 23.—Long Beach will compete in the girls' telegraphic track meet to be held on May 27. Under arrangements now completed, the girls' marks from all over the country will be gathered, and the winners will be eligible for the final try-out in New York city in July to determine members of the women's team that will represent the United States in the first international field meet August 20 at Pershing stadium, in France.

Girl students in eight colleges are now scheduled to take part in the telegraphic meet, and it is possible that two more will enter. The records will be accepted on a par with the results in the first try-out for the international games, held May 13 at Oakesmore school, Mamaroneck, N. Y. First and second places will be considered for this purpose, the time in the same events to determine selections between two groups. Telegraphic dispatches will be followed by letters giving the names and records of winners of four places in each event, with data on each contestant for purposes of statistical tables and credentials.

The meet will include state colleges of Florida and Mississippi, and the Universities of Kentucky Nebraska, New Mexico, Arizona the University of California, Southern Branch, Colorado college at Colorado Springs, the Universities of Montana, Nevada and Hawaii have not as yet made definite entries.

The high school section of the girls' competition will be held under similar management. Schools entered are Los Angeles high, Burbank, Petaluma, Bakersfield, Sherman Indian school, and Winnemucca, Nevada, high.

BASEBALL TEAMS ARE NEAR END OF CONTESTS

Cerritos, Intermediate, Pacific and Broadway Win on Monday

The contests between the ball teams of the various grammar schools competing for championship in their divisions and the final championship of the city schools, are narrowing down.

Monday the senior teams of Cerritos and Columbus avenue played. Cerritos winning by a score of 13 to 6. On the same day an Intermediate team defeated Doran's team, 10 to 3.

Pacific and Central avenue teams were matched in a game which ended in a score of 19 to 18 in favor of Pacific. Broadway and Colorado players were matched, Colorado winning, 23 to 11.

Several decisive games are set for next Monday. The game to determine the city championship will probably be pulled off within a fortnight, says Director Alfred Blanford.

REALTORS' DREAM TO COME TRUE

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23.—The speaking range of the fifteenth annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, which will be in session in San Francisco from May 30 to June 3, will have a radius of 3,000 miles from the platform of the Exposition auditorium in the civic center.

This has been made possible through the utilization of radio. Arrangements have now been completed for the broadcasting of the proceedings of the entire gathering from the Rockridge radio station in Berkeley. This station has a range that will extend as far as Honolulu on the west, Alaska on the north, Mexico on the south and Ohio on the east. Under the most favorable conditions, it has also been heard as far east as Long Island.

As far as is known, this is the first convention to date that has utilized this most modern development of the science of communication. This installation of numerous microphones around the speaker's platform is now in progress. A direct telephone sending set will be used so that the speaker's voice will be transmitted directly from the platform to the sending station and thence to the air without any relays.

Realtors in Toledo who found it impossible to attend the convention will make arrangements to listen in to the opening address of their fellow townsman, Irving B. Hiett, president of the national association. Similar arrangements will be made by other boards who have entered a representative in the Chicago Cup contest. This is a contest inaugurated several years ago in which a silver trophy cup is awarded to the best oration on the attractions and advantages of the contestant's home town.

Real estate boards throughout the country are being advised as to the hours on which they may listen in on the proceedings of the convention. San Francisco realtors regard this as an important innovation, as it will enable thousands of realtors otherwise unable to participate in the deliberations of the convention to hear first hand the important discussions of the gathering.

The indications are now that the convention will exceed in numbers the original tally made by the local convention committee. From the east, the middle west, the north and the south special trains have been arranged. These will begin arriving here on or before May 30.

One of the biggest parties will be the "end of the trail" motor caravan, which is to start from Los Angeles and gather recruits through the San Joaquin valley, arriving here on the evening of the 30th in time to participate in the big opening reception to be held at the Palace hotel. Many eastern realtors will join this caravan at Los Angeles. It is predicted that there will be from 400 to 500 cars in this motor procession.

The convention will be formally opened on the morning of May 31.

Wild Pastures

By JOHN BRECK

How folks do pick on the humble grass! Each vigorous young seed bursts into active life fully confident that it can wrest a competence from the roots of its struggling competitors, bank enough of this earth's goods in its succulent leaves to venture marriage, and shoot up a knee-high stalk, bowed by the weight of the coming grass-seed generation before the summer drought brings on hard times. But the grazing beasts persistently rob its bank. If they do not trim it too close it will try again, season after season, till it dies of old age, like a forest tree. Yet reduce it to penury, crush its hopes with continual trampling, and it gives up the struggle, surrenders its roothold to a fresh planting.

Tact is the secret of this confidence game. Exhaust it with overwork and you must bury it with your plow in no time. Rather will you "rotate pasturage" on your little farm—or the one you farm in fancy with the shades pulled down to keep the street lights out of your eyes. You fence it off in plots, each to be fed in turn while the others rest.

So does Mother Nature. 'Twas a trick of hers some aeons before it was devised by an experiment station.

She "rotates" her grazers. She sets her restless herds on roving feet that come only to pass on. She makes her flocks avoid the scent of their own tread, gives a whimsical palate to the browsing deer who loves variety, lets the hare nibble lightly as he goes. Even the field mouse devours only the oldest and richest roots while the young eagerly seek their inheritance.

She fences—by shadows. In the cool spring all creation seeks the sun. Let the grass wave never so lush beneath April trees, no tongue gathers it in. For it tastes of the drippings winter storms have scrubbed from their bark, or the rank tang of fallen leaves. But when the hot sun has dried the sunlit spaces the pleasant shades are fit for feeding.

By then tall tangles fringe each shrub and trunk, leaning out fertile heads for the wind to strew, the heat-cracks or the autumn frosts to plant, and the rain to harrow in, each stalk prolific to make up for many a failure her stock has fattened on. Yet in the open the grass still sends up courageous stems to be woven by the wind into a safeguard for its earliest ventures of the spring. Still it faces its odds—as we, equally unknowing what they are, face our own.

MASONS GATHER AT THE TEMPLE

Degrees Are Conferred on Arthur Dibbern and Alvin Glen Low

At an impressive ceremony starting at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the Masonic Temple, Arthur Dibbern was given the Malta and Rosy Cross degrees of the Knights Templar, Glendale commandery. Eminent Commander George U. Moyse was in charge of the work, which was beautifully exemplified by those taking part. The ceremony of administering the two degrees was completed at 6:30 p. m. and the Templars sat down to a delightful dinner served by the lodge caterer.

The conferring of the two degrees took place before one of the largest crowds of Masons that eer attended a ceremony in Glendale.

After the dinner the Knights Templar went into session and conferred the Temple degree on Alin Glen Low. The work of conferring this degree was finished at 10:30 p. m. The Temple degree will be glen to another candidate at a special session of the lodge tomorrow night.

WILL BURN WOODEN SOLDIER MEMORIALS

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 23.—On Memorial day the old wooden war memorials that glittered with painted carving in 1919 are to be burned in accordance with military regulations by various posts of the American Legion, according to reports received at national headquarters of the Legion.

These memorials were built in many instances in the early days of the armistice, and bore on wooden panels the names of the local dead of the service. Of late they have fallen into decay, having been erected merely as temporary memorials. Souvenir hunters have already marked out the carved eagles on top of them for mantlepiece ornaments.

The Legionnaires remember the army regulations which provide that old American flags too shabby for display are to be burned, so that the torn pieces may never be scattered or soiled MONTEVIDO, May 23.—Jerked beef is now threatening to become the cause of a tariff war between Uruguay and Brazil. The national council has announced its intention to lay a proposal before the chamber of deputies that customs duties levied upon Brazilian products be increased as a reprisal for similar action which the neighboring country proposes to impose on the Uruguay meat.

13 BOARDS ENDED BY PRESBYTERIANS

DES MOINES, Iowa, May 23.—The most radical step in the 134 years' history of the church was taken late yesterday afternoon by the Presbyterian general assembly in session here, when the convention voted to accept the first three paragraphs of part one of the report of the committee on reorganization.

The action eliminates thirteen boards and other agencies of the church in the United States and replaces them with four new boards.

The boards eliminated follow:

Foreign missions, home missions, woman's board of foreign missions, woman's board of home missions, publication and Sabbath school work, education, ministerial relief and sustenation, church erection fund, missions for freedmen, temperance and moral welfare, committee on evangelism, committee on men's work, and committee on Sabbath observance.

The work of the boards eliminated will be carried on by the following boards of which they will become departments: Board of foreign missions, national board of missions, board of Christian education, board of ministerial relief and sustentation.

Crowns are never won by bearing home-made crosses.

Truths in Epigram

Physiological experiment on animals is justifiable for real investigation, but not for mere damnable and detestable curiosity.—Darwin (1809-1882).

America has furnished to the world the character of Washington. And if our American institutions had done nothing else, that alone would have entitled them to the respect of mankind.—Webster (1782-1852).

WHO KILLED COCK ROBIN?

There are various reasons given for the failure of the Genoa conference. England, France or Italy are blamed according to the bias of the correspondent. Russia is generally conceded to have been the responsible factor. Out of the whole array of conflicting asseverations may be gathered the plain truth that the attempt to mix oil and water resulted in accordance with recognized laws. They did not mix.

There is no common basis on which bolshevism and orderly governments may stand. They do not think on the same terms. They have codes that conflict at every point of contact. For example a government places some value on a treaty. It regards its honor as pledged to abide by the terms. A bolshevist regime places no value on a treaty, for it is without honor, and consideration of an obligation does not give rise to any of the emotions that may be traced to honor.

A government tries, selfishly it may be, to better its own conditions, and to this end is ready to apply its resources and its energy. A bolshevist regime exacts support, donations, gratuities, expecting to be fed, and backing its demands by covert threats. It declines to make use of its resources, to till its fields and run its factories, to operate its transportation system, for these activities would require toil. Moreover it seeks to poison the minds of all its neighbors, perhaps on the theory that misery loves company, and if it desires to see the poverty into which it is sunk, the rule throughout the world.

No wonder the conference failed. The United States was wise enough to sense the outcome in advance, and so it kept away. While the members of the conference regretted the absence, none has intimated that the course of this country was not discreet and honorable.

THE ISOLATION BUSINESS

Isolation is impossible to any nation. It could not be desirable to any. Every nation fills its part in a vast scheme, which in the absence of that nation, could not be complete.

Recently the senate chamber has vibrated to the thunderous demand for isolation as a part of the policy of the United States. The futility and the sheriness of the plea escaped the orators, but all others were aware. Now the same men who, for promotion of the isolation plan, desired to kill the four-power pact, are advocating an active interference that would lead to muddle with every other power in civilization. They want the United States to be the financial backer of Russia, and to devote capital to the development of China. And they want Uncle Sam to be a hermit! Here seems to be the climax of futile endeavor.

The United States alone could not interfere in China without exciting the suspicion and animosity of every European people. For it to undertake such mission while posing as duly and finally isolated, a thing apart from world activities, would be for it to proclaim itself either a wanton hypocrite or a collective ass. About the same would be true were it to take up the burden of the ingrate Slav. It would be regarded by the bolshevists as easy picking, by the others as a meddlesome knave. And as it would not be laying the foundation of peace, but encouraging them again to become a possibility, the characterization could not be deemed overly severe.

As a matter of fact the members of a truculent and bombastic senatorial minority, opened their mouths and put their feet in. Now they can't shut their mouths.

THE WATER AND POWER ACT

A synopsis of the water and power act has been given in these pages. The measure provides. in brief, for an issue of $500.000.000 in bonds. This vast sum is to be placed in the hands of five men, and they are given liberty to expend it as they please. There are no limitations set to their activities. They become a law unto themselves.

Behind this act is supposed to be the desire for public ownership of utilities. The correctness or incorrectness of the theory of such ownership does not require discussion. So far as the judgment of the people is concerned, the merits of public ownership are never even brought under consideration. The outstanding fact is that it is proposed to load the state with an unprecedented volume of debt, and to turn the money thus procured over to a body of unknown disposition to experiment with. Meanwhile these men are to pay themselves salaries they are to name, and hire subordinates without restriction as to number, paying these also unspecified salaries. In their act they are not responsible to any higher authority, for there is to be no higher authority. Were they to waste the money, the public and the governor would be equally helpless to interfere.

There are many who favor public ownership of utilities. They would be glad to see the water power of the state conserved, and put to the best uses of all the people. This does not by any means lead them to approval to the pending measure. They are not in favor of mortgaging the state for a purpose that will not be carried out. They do not believe it would be wise to give any group of politicians a stupendous fund and the privilege of dissipating it without so much as a check on their operations.

When the government constructed the Panama canal the world admired its enterprise and its lavish use of money, and admitted in the end that a great and beneficent triumph had been achieved. But the world would have viewed as the grossest folly, the method of turning over to any group, the millions necessary to the work, and telling them to proceed according to their own notions, reaching into the treasury as often as they desired, the deficit thus created to be made good by taxation.

The sum named in the act under consideration is $140,000,000 more than went into the building of the canal. The act has every aspect of being a great grab, and not something devised for the common good. Were it to become a law the only certainty would be creation of an enormous burden to weight down every factor in commercial life.

DEFENDING THE CONSTITUTION

H. F. Atwood of Chicago has been telling the people of this state that they must respect the constitution on which the nation is founded.

It may be that the gentleman will be surprised to learn that Californians entertain notions precisely similar. They respect the constitution, believe in it, accept its principles. They remember that something is said in the Declaration of Independence as to the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. They are aware that the able men who framed the constitution were in complete sympathy with the earlier pronouncement.

Mr. Atwood thinks that he sees the destruction of the republic in the popular drift away from the constitution. He is seeing fantasies. When he declares that the initiative and referendum mean ruin, he means he is disturbed by seeing certain buttressed interests made to comport themselves with some regard for the public. The people of the United States are not convinced that all the brains of the generation naturally are drawn to the seats of legislation, and that the professional politician and his backer represent a wisdom so profound, that to interfere is to assault the constitution so that it threatens to fall.

In warning against direct legislation he cited the government of Russia, a land at present without government, and thus no fair citation. He denounced direct government by the people as the greatest menace facing the world. Somehow this recalls the words of Abraham Lincoln, by reason of being so different. In a perhaps unguarded moment, and unenlightened by the prescience of the Atwoods of his day, Mr. Lincoln spoke rather well of government by the people, and intimated a hope that it should not perish from the earth. It has survived to date. With all consideration, it may be added that Lincoln was familiar with the constitution, too.

The people of the United States are interested in the character and perpetuity of their government. They do not believe that the particular elements whose influence is spread through Atwood are infallible, and at times even doubt that they are sincere.

BELINOGRAMS

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Belinogram is a word which has been coined from the name of Edouard Belin of Paris, and is applied to the message which transmits a photograph by telegraph.

For some time photographs have been sent by telegraphy, but it has not been photo-telegraphy in the true sense.

The method formerly employed was as follows, roughly stated:

The position of a point on a square can be indicated by two numbers, the first giving the vertical column, and the second, the horizontal column in which it lies. The size, as well as the position of the point, can be indicated by a third set of numbers. In this way photographs can be reproduced by a series of black dots of varying sizes distributed over a sheet divided into squares, and reproduced by the same method.

The examination of an ordinary photograph, however, shows at once the laborious length of such a message.

Various devices have been employed to send pictures as pictures, but they have not attained commercial success.

Edouard Belin, however, recently communicated to the French Academy of Sciences a description of his process on which he had been engaged since 1907.

He makes his prints on gelatine loaded with bichromate and mounted on a revolving metallic cylinder. A special microphone reads off the variations in thickness of the gelatine prints, which correspond to the variations of pressure. In the receiving instrument a minute point of light from a special arc lamp is focused on the mirror of a blondel oscillograph. The arrangement is such that the variations are focused on a sensitive film moving in complete harmony with the gelatine print in the transmitter.

M. Belin claims that by his method texts and photographs have been sent from New York to St. Louis, finger prints from Paris to Lyons, and Chinese and Japanese script over the same route.

The above description, of course, does not give the minute technical details by which this process differs from its predecessors, but may convey some idea of the character of the invention.

The main point is that the device seems to work, and if it does it certainly is an important step in advance in the great conquest by human ingenuity over the obstacles of space and time.

There is an undeniable connection between the advance in scientific invention and the advance of the spirit of man in the realm of ideas.

The ocean liner, the express train, the magnetic telegraph, the wireless telephone, and the airplane have more to do with weaving the human race into a solidarity than any League of Nations, Washington conference, or other political scheme.

The progress of mankind by invention speeded up like a race horse in the nineteenth century; in the twentieth century it is going forward with the rapidity of a high-powered airplane.

THE LISTENING POST

The dawn came.
And the first rays of it illumined the earth.
Glistening on the hills and lifting the shadows from the valleys.
And Industry awakened.

* * *

Industry awakened and rose from bed.
Garbed himself for the day.
For the light was upon the world and he could see to labor.
And he went forth into the field.
Gathered sheaves and faggots and sheared the wool of lambs and brought in berries and herbs.

* * *

Industry sang meanwhile.
Swung his sickle and clicked his shears.
And the sheaves were gathered and the fleeces stored and the berries and herbs brought.
And through the day Industry toiled.
For it was light and the sun shone and the hours were fruitful.

* * *

And while Industry arose at the dawn, Sloth slept.
The rays of the sun shone in his eyes but he took no heed.
Except to cover them from the light.
And lie at ease.
And a voice said:
"Awake for it is time for toil. There are the sheaves to be brought and the faggots to gather and the fleeces to shear."

* * *

But Sloth remained idle.
And to the Voice that spoke Sloth muttered:
"The dawn is just here. The day will be long. There is yet time."
For that is the way of Sloth.

* * *

And the Noon came.
Industry rested a while from his labors.
And saw the gathered sheaves and the fleeces and the faggots.
And was glad for the fruits of the morning.
While Sloth still slept.

* * *

And then the noonday sun shone in the window.
And Sloth was awakened.
And muttered sleepily.
While the Voice spoke again:
"Now it is the noon time and the day half gone and no sheaves gathered or faggots and the fleeces are not shorn."
And Sloth muttered sleepily again:
"There is yet time."

* * *

And so the day passed.
With Industry at toil in the field and among the flocks.
And Sloth asleep.
And the sun passed from East to West and the shadows began to fall in the evening.
And dusk came on.
And Sloth awoke just as Industry was gathering the last of the sheaves and shearing the last of the wool and gathering the last of the faggots for the fire.

* * *

And Sloth came from bed.
And cried aloud to the sun that was sinking:
"Wait! Wait! For I have faggots to gather for the night and the dark and sheaves for food and fleeces for warmth. And there is little time! For I cannot labor in the dusk and dark!"

* * *

And the sun sank.
Darkness filled the earth.
And Sloth groped in the darkness crying:
"Wait! Wait! For my work is not done!"
And the Voice said:
"I called you at the dawn and at the noon and you kept asleep. And you replied that there was yet time.
And now there are no faggots for the fire and no sheaves for bread and no fleeces for raiment. And there is no time left!"
And so Sloth went into the darkness and the night empty handed.
For the day of opportunity was gone.

Song—Bliss Carman (1861——)

Love, by that loosened hair
Well now I know
Where the lost Lilith went
So long ago.

Love, by those starry eyes
I understand
How the sea maidens lure
Mortals from land.

Love, by that welling laugh
Joys claims his own
Sea-born and wind-wayward
Child of the sun.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

UNCLE JOE CANNON'S MESSAGE

[New York Herald]

With eighty-six years behind him, Uncle Joe Cannon, still an active member of congress, celebrated his birthday and marked it with this characteristic, homely and meaty bit of advice to everybody wise enough to take advice:

"Lead a simple life, vote right, pay your honest debts, collect all that's coming to you, but no more, and treat your family right."

The trouble with many well meaning men whose success in life entitles them to give counsel to their fellow citizens is that they deal in generalities. In this simple and understandable message Uncle Joe Cannon does not fall into that error. He is not afraid to be practical, to be sensible. He does not go into poetical altruism or issue a moral chart to guide perfect beings in a perfect world. Instead he digs down to the essentials of right living and provides a short, comprehensible and workable formula.

This is like the man. He has never chased rainbows. He has never pretended to virtues he did not possess or feigned qualities that were not his. He has looked straight at the facts before him, judged men as they are and not as they ought to be, and met emergencies which existed as they were. Sanity and good sense, good humor and industry, sound judgment based on wide experience and shrewdness have marked this veteran all his years of public service.

BETWEEN OURSELVES

By DELLA STEWART

"Our writers are as graphic as Poe, as virile as Voltaire, as charming as Wordsworth, as finished as Dickens, with a dash of Mark Twain," boasts a certain advertising agency.

Far be it from us to deny the talent displayed in the advertisements of the day. But it is difficult to imagine a Poe urging the use of Cleanum's Washing Machines, a Voltaire praising some new soap, a Wordsworth using his poetic fire to boost breakfast food, a Dickens devoting his powers of description to the selling of baking powder, or a Mark Twain adapting his humor to the popularizing of aluminum ware. It may be that the fault lies in our weak brand of imagination. However, that may be, the advertising of today is wonderfully enticing.

One isn't conscious of a hundredth part of the belongings necessary to a well-ordered life, happiness, health, or mental enjoyment until he peruses the advertising pages of the modern magazine or of the Sunday edition. Not reading, he might have gone to death's door never knowing that in the purchase of A's shoes, B's underwear, C's hats, D's gloves and E's guide to social observance lay his one chance for comfort and distinction.

The writer reading of many a rural family centers about the ponderous mail order books, their spring fiction consists of the seed catalogues. Some of the latter are almost worthy of a Poe or a Wordsworth! How they charm and inspire with fresh hope, whatever the dismal failures of the gardens of the past! How they coax the dollars from pocket to mail pouches, and ultimately to the instigators of such catalogues!

Then there's the suave, yet persistent young agent, who strives to make one feel that he is the keynote of the whole neighborhood, and pleads until one feels he is utterly ruining the chances of a deserving youth does he refuse to purchase!

Even though there are no Poes or Wordsworths in the advertising field, there are other geniuses fully as gifted in their way.

WARNING TO COOKS

[Springfield Union]

The explanation of a Springfield woman that the supposed explosion of a moonshine still in her home, resulting in considerable damage to the home and severe injury to herself, was merely the explosion of a pot of boiling potatoes, suggests the importance of making sure that the potatoes one buys for cooking purposes are of a non-explosive variety.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

President Harding in a recent speech made an appeal for "a commerce with a conscience." Perhaps the thought was not new, but it is a mighty thought.

HENRY JAMES

Probably there was not a profiteer who heaped up millions during the war who did not justify himself by the reflection "Business is business." And while it is true that business is business, the construction usually put upon the phrase is that business is larceny.

This is not the slightest reflection upon the honest men engaged in commercial enterprise. Happily there are far more of these than of the other type. But when an act is brutal or otherwise immoral, and the perpetrator offers the excuse "business is business" he is confessing himself a scoundrel. Honest business has no occasion to apologize.

"A commerce with a conscience" could it prevail everywhere, would change the complexion of the world, smooth out the troubles of Europe, permit a perfect amity between employer and employee, and shed light as the dawn of a veritable millenial day.

Greed is the great calamity of nations as of individuals. Nations and individuals must transact business. Their great problem is to learn to do it always by decent and honest methods; to have a conscience.

Severe punishment is being given to dope peddlers, that is to say, punishment severe as the law allows. They are sent up for two years which is the limit.

As the dope peddler is accessory to every form of crime there is, the statute should be changed so as to permit the imposing of a life sentence.

Arraigned in a Los Angeles court for drunkenness, a woman escaped without fine, although the male escort, no drunker, had to dig up. At first the court was inclined to treat the two with equal severity, but learning that the female prisoner was against suffrage, and never had voted, he let her go with her money intact.

Very interesting. The passage of law upon which the decision was based also would be interesting.

There will be no Russian loan. The reason is that bolshevists repudiate every formality or understanding that would make possible security for a loan.

It is very simple when expressed in these few words. Moreover, to hand to the Russians, who still intend to destroy all government, the means for getting paraphernalia for the attack would hardly be the prompting of humanity, or wise diplomacy.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

Last time I visited the old farm I found that neighborhood infested by a sort of bush evangelist. He was one of these chaps with a mission, you know, and he was just as popular as most missionaries are. Every time he caught an unfortunate countryman off base he tagged him.

"You're living wrong," he used to say. "Listen to me. I'll tell you how to live right."

That always was a mute and despairing county, anyhow, and it seemed to me that it was getting worse fast under his ministrations. Wherever I went I found some one with his head in his hands, wondering how he could kill the evangelist without getting found out. And about that time the wandering minstrel would blow cheerily along.

"Listen to the new gospel," he would say.

"Don't let your lamp smoke.

"Make it burn with a glow."

Then the countrymen would rise with a groan and climb wearily into his buggy and go away from there. And the evangelist would try another one. He never let up. His idea seemed to be that the more we give out—radiate—the happier we are. He insisted on smiling and being happy. He looked for amusement. He tried to cheer up other people. He didn't have any cut-and-dried ideas about happiness, either. He would go to the movies, or dance, or play a fiddle, or sit up with a sick man, or holler at a revival. The one thing he insisted on was that the more people you can get to have fun with you, the more fun you'll have. That was all the religion he had. He believed in heaven, he said, because every one in heaven is sure to be joyful.

Well—he was a nut, of course—any man who would spend his time talking that sort of gospel is bound to be a nut—but that county is a livelier place than it used to be. All that fine old crusted gloom has been erased, and there are debates and husking bees and dances and singin' societies and spellin' schools and picnics and what-nots. There was a minister who said that this liveliness was the work of the devil, and he was chased by a practically unanimous vote of his church.

There may be something in this idea of radiation.

Gertrude Heineman Is Selected by Committee for President

At the meeting of the junior auxiliary of the Glendale Music club held at the home of Miss Gertrude Heidemann, 123 South Adams, Saturday night, the nominating committee of which Mrs. Dora Gibson was chairman, presented its report and officers were elected as follows:

President, Gertrude Heidemann; first vice president, James Smith; second vice president, Josephine Booth; secretary, Doris Moyse; treasurer, Lloyd Knapp; corresponding secretary, Margaret West; historian, Margaret Brown; social committee, Marcella Webb, Lawrence Smith, Agnes Thaxter; hospitality committee, Lucile Harris, Ethel Burke, Freda Potts. Alton Mattice, chairman, who will select his assistants.

There was a short and informal musical program by members present and games were played, followed by the serving of refreshments. Directors of the junior auxiliary will be appointed by the parent club.

Announcement was made that two juvenile and two junior club members would act as ushers at the big program to be given Satuprday evening in the Bovard auditorium, University of Southern California by the California Federation of Music clubs.

The club expects to send quite a delegation to the concert which has been arranged by Mr. Behymer and arrangements for transportation are being made to enable them to go in a body. Members who desire to attend are requested to communicate with Miss Heidmann.

MISS TORREY GIVES NOVEL BREAKFAST

Mrs. H. Torrey of 218 Wast Doran street entertained with a novel breakfast on Sunday morning in honor of guests, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Conway of New Orleans. Mr. Conway is in the manufacturing business there, making infants' wear. They are on their way to New York.

The party, including Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Conway, Mrs. Ida Wright, Miss Ida Antrim, Richard Torrey and Mrs. H. Torrey, motored to Riverside, where they took luncheon at the Mission Inn and spent an enjoyable day.

PYTHIAN SISTERS HOLD MEETING

The Pythian Sisters held their regular meeting Friday night in K. of P. hall, corner Park avenue and Brand boulevard. There was a fine attendance and after the business meeting a surprise was given all members when they adjourned to the banquet hall where a delicious luncheon has been prepared in honor of the birthday of Mrs. F. MISS MOTTERN IS AMAZED AT CITY GROWTH

Returning From Winter in East, Finds Many New Buildings

Miss Elizabeth Mottern, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Mottern, who spent the winter in New York city, arrived in Glendale Monday afternoon and says after getting off at Broadway and Brand she had to walk around a while before she could get her bearings, the city had grown so during the months she has been away. To her it is simply amazing to see the change.

She is glad to be at home again and see the country so beautiful, but she misses the loveliness of the eastern spring when every tree and shrub bursts into leaf and bloom to clothe the naked limbs stripped by winter. She wishes we had more of that emerald resurrection here.

She went to New York to study music and when asked whether she had gotten as much out of her winter as she expected, replied: "About five times as much as I expected, and I expected a great deal. I am glad to be here again, of course, but I was sorry to say goodbye to the friends I had made there and to give up my good church position, though the director told me it would be open to me whenever I was ready to go back. I hope to be able to return soon because of the opportunities there. There is something intangible that New York does to people who go there which makes them want to go back in spite of the awful expense of living there and other disadvantages."

STRAWBERRY SPONGE

Two tablespoons (one envelope) gelatine, soften in one-half cup of cold water, add to one-fourth cup of boiling water one half-cup of sugar, stir until the gelatine is dissolved. Pour this over the well beaten whites of two eggs, add two cups of mashed strawberries and when beginning to set, add one cup of whipped cream. Pour into a mold in refrigerator and allow to congeal. When ready to serve dip the mold into hot water, turn out on a pretty platter and garnish with strawberries and orange blossoms.

CARAMEL CUSTARD

Heat one quart of milk in a douby boiler; while this is heating creamelize three-fourths cup sugar by boiling with one-fourth cup water until golden brown in color. Then pour slowly into the hot milk, stir and cook until thoroughly dissolved. The high temperature of the syrup will raise that of the hot milk so care is necessary in combing the two. Beat four eggs slightly, one-fourth teaspoon salt and a few gratings of nutmeg; beat well and add the one quart milk; strain into buttered custord cups and set in a pan of hot water in a slow oven; bake until firm. Care must be taken that the water around the moulds does not boil.

ENGLISH POTATO SALAD

Cut into dice enough firm, cooked potatoes to make two and a half cups, add half a cup of coarsely chopped dill pickle. Marinate both ingredients in a dressing composed of equal parts of salad oil and vinegar, and when ready to make the salad, drain and add two chopped hard boiled eggs, two minced pickled beets, three tablespoons chopped parsley, half a grated white onion and and two tablespoons chopped sausage. Moisten all with a boiled salad dressing and serve on a bed of shredded lettuce.

THE CHILALY

Cook one tablespoon butter with two tablespoons chopped green pepper and one and one-half tablespoons chopped onion for three minutes, stirring constantly. Add one-half cup canned tomato pulp from which the liquor has been drained and cook five minutes. Add three pounds soft mild cheese cut in small bits, three-fourths teaspoon salt and dash cayenne. When cheese is melted, add two tablespoons milk and one egg slightly beaten. Serve on squares of toasted bread.

CURRIED LOBSTER

Brown one teaspoon of finely minced onion in butter, add two teaspoons of curry powder, two tablespoons flour and one-half teaspoon salt. When frothy add one pint of weak soup stock, stir until mixture boils. Then put in one pint of lobster and serve as soon as heated through. Boiled rice is served with this. Steam until dry.

BUSINESS WOMEN TO SELECT NEW PRESIDENT

Mrs. G. U. Moyse Unable to Serve Because of High School Work

A called meeting of the council of the Business and Professional Women's club was held at headquarters on South Brand, Monday night at which the resignation of Mrs. George U. Moyse, as president was accepted with regret. She was the unanimous choice of the organization, being elected at the annual meeting without a dissenting voice and hoped for a time she would be able to fill the office. But the building of a new high school will increase the duties of both Mr. and Mrs. Moyse and she felt she could not do justice to the office. At a subsequent session the office will be filled by the council as provided in constitution and by-laws.

Mrs. Moyse will continue to interest herself in the vocational department of the club and urged that the club take out a membership in the newly organized Women's Vocational Alliance, established by representatives of the Women's University club and the Federation of Business Women's clubs. Headquarters have bene secured in the Los Angeles chamber of commerce, of which Miss Hausam will have charge for the present. It will act as a clearing house for occupational activities and will be a bureau to which the local committee can refer applicants who cannot be placed here. It aims to serve women workers, industry, and education and is an attempt to co-ordinate existing agencies and combat the graft of the commercial employment bureau. No fee is charged for the service rendered.

The council voted to take a membership and pay a quarter of the annual fee at this time.

In this connection Mrs. Moyse made a report of the work which has been accomplished by the vocational committee of the local club, composed of herself and Mrs. Margaret Biggs though the time they have been able to give to it has been limited. Her statistics showed that 170 women have applied for aid in getting positions and 38 placements have been made. Thirty-five others did not take positions which the committee found for them.

Fourteen requests for aid in finding furnished rooms were handled and to eight persons seeking an occupation, openings were suggested. Twenty-nine employers came and asked for help. The Glendale club is said to be the only one in the county outside of Los Angeles and Pasadena that has undertaken this work.

DAUGHTERS OF VETERANS, TO HOLD MEETING

Daughters of Veterans will hold their regular meeting tonight at 7:30, in American Legion hall Every member is urged to come A social meeting will follow the business meeting.

PORTLAND FESTIVAL IS POSTPONED

PORTLAND, Ore., May 23.—The postponement of the annual Rose Festival, Portland's annual early summer carnival, from June 7 to June 20 to 23 inclusive, is regarded here as an exceptionally wise move on the part of the fesival committee.

The chief reason for the postponement was the lack of roses, due to the late spring. Portlanders take pride in using only roses grown in the city for decorating their floats, and owing to the tenacity of the winter it was estimated that there would not be enough roses in the first week in June to decorate a wheelbarrow parade.

The delay will give the board of directors time to arrange several special events which had almost been abandoned because of the shortness of time in which to arrange details. One of these events is a track and field carnival to be held under the auspices of the Multnomah club and the festival committee. The other is a yacht race and motor boat regatta, an annual feature, but one which it was hoped this year would attract entries from several leading coast cities.

Seattle, through George C. Longdon, secretary of the Seattle Yacht club, recently forwarded word that he had placed the proposition of representation at Portland before the members of the club with considerable favorable response. There were rumors of entries from San Francisco, but these had not assumed sufficient definiteness to be regarded as certain of developing into fact.

FLY PIGEONS ON TOURING TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. H. Sands Release Birds and They Make Time Home

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Sands of 345 Burchett street, and a party of friends, motored up to the Ridge route on Sunday, where they took 48 pigeons with them. They let them loose up there and in a hour and a half time, the pigeons were home again, having flown a distance of 50 miles and finding their way home.

Last year, Mr. Sands was known to have the only pigeons on the Pacific coast that could cover a distance of 500 miles in one day. He took a bunch 500 miles inland and they came home the same day, which is a fine record.

THOMAS MEIGHAN IN "BACHELOR DADDY"

Thomas Meighan, Paramount star, and his well-balenced cast, including Leatrice Joy, leading woman, and five famous screen kiddies, Charlotte Jackson, Barbara Maier, Bruce Guerin and the mischievous DeBriac Twins, present a splendid performance of "The Bachelor Daddy," which opened at the T. D. & L. Theatre today.

Alton, the wonder organist, is giving music lovers a treat. Tex, the mental wizard, comes to the T. D. & L. Thursday and is expected to startle the city.

RALPHS GROCERY IS BUSY PLACE

Business is very good at Ralph's Grocery, according to its popular manager, Mr. Russell. Low prices, good goods and service is increasing business right along at Ralph's, and the same popular prices and high quality goods as prevail at all the Ralph's stores, is given Glendale patrons.

Ralph's Grocery has had a big tendency to stimulate business on West Broadway, and merchants in all lines are jubilant over the fact that the postoffice is coming to their section, which will be in about 60 days, the new Ralph's building being completed at that time.

SURFMEN FIGHT FIRE ON SHORE

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C., May 23.—Coast guardsmen turned fire fighters when the town of Manteo, near where the first English colony in America settled late in the 16th century, was threatened with destruction by flames. Fire swept through a 100-acre wood until they reached the edge of the town, located on Roanoke island. The man on watch in the coast guard station at Nag's Head observed the smoke. The surfmen put off for the threatened town and arrived in time to aid effectively in checking the fire, which was about to sweep a negro settlement.

A good salesman should be as full of bounce as a small boy with a cat and a bull terrier after him.

Reliable Home Builders' Directory and Guide

HOW FAR IS IT FROM YOUR HOME?

Is your office and your home at "opposite ends of creation"? Couldn't you use your "going and coming" time to better advantage? "If I could have the quiet environment of my country home, and still be within 15 minutes of Broadway, I'd be interested——" you say.
Then you should buy a hilltop homesite in the Hills of Ivanhoe. To Broadway

From Ivanhoe Hills It's Only Three Miles

As a Place to Live

where quietude, convenience and scenic beauty combine, even mountain resorts do not excel, these green hills encircling Silver Lake, Los Angeles' largest body of water. We pay for all improvements. Water is already in. You can start building immediately. Gas and electricity can be had on request. The Sierra Madres, from these hills, are sights of surpassing grandeur.

Lots $1000 and Up

As an Investment

If you want to make money in real estate, buy ahead of highway developments. A program calling for vast expenditures in building and paving highways through Ivanhoe Hills has been perfected. Work will be started in the City of Los Angeles soon. These highways converge and cross the unit now selling. They include Griffith Park Blvd. (Childs Ave.), Hyperion Ave. and Rowena Ave. One will be a link of the Lincoln Highway, another part of a short cut from Pasadena to the ocean.

Listening in on Eve

HIS FATAL ERROR

"I've had the most awful experience!" gasped the still young woman, shuddering herself out of her hat and furs. "You can't imagine!"

"Nothing could make me try," said the indolent girl who wanted to yawn and hated the exertion. "Did you get held up?"

"That would have been less trying!" mourned the pretty girl who was still young. "No, Irene, I ran slap into a man with whom I was madly in love ten years ago, he being similarly afflicted in regard to me. The world at that time was a totally empty space except for ourselves. And he took me to lunch!"

"Have they passed a law against taking a girl to luncheon?" inquired the indolent young woman in some alarm.

"Just listen and don't attempt to think," soothed her friend. "It always upsets you so! When Bill and I approached one another downtown and realized it was even so we cleared a straight line through the populace and shook hands until we blocked the walk. Of course, you understand, that he and I are distinctly not in love now. Many things intervened since ten years ago—mostly the ten years.

"Neither interfering relatives, artful vampires, nor quarrels are as deadly to romance as ten years, one right after the other, and the general stress of catching up with yourself. Both of us declared we had recognized the other the instant our eyes met—that's the courteous thing to do, you know. What really happened was that my brain did a wild whirl on this order—'I know I ought to know this man—who on earth—he certainly is somebody I should speak to, and yet maybe he isn't—heavens, he thinks I'm trying to flirt with him—I believe he is going to speak to me—is he the cashier in my new bank or did I meet him at Lulu's dinner—gracious me, if it isn't Bill!'

"And I've no doubt he did just the same, if not more so. When we got settled down at the luncheon table we took a square look at each other. I was grieved and surprised to see how Bill had changed, though, of course, I took pains not to show it. Why, ten years ago I considered him the handsomest man on earth, with a magnificent figure and glorious eyes and marvelous hair, to say nothing of a remarkable brain and scintillating wit.

"It wasn't that Bill did not present a good appearance today—he is distinctly the sort that people look at twice—but somehow I could recall any number of men who looked just as handsome and well set up. How on earth could I possibly have been so enthralled with him? He was just as nice as he could be, and attentive, but somehow there didn't seem to be a scintilla of the wit and brilliance that I used to rave about.

"As for himself he had not been stirring up the world in the least since he came out of college. It seemed that he had been selling shirts and had advanced to being district manager. Now, I know shirts are necessary and frequently beautiful, but it was an awful blow to find that for ten years Bill's mind had been filled with cheviot, linen and percale shirts, especially since I had been convinced ten years back that either he would turn out to be the world's greatest poet or the president of a railroad in case he was not forced into the presidential chair. He was most enthusiastic about the shirting prospect for the ensuing year.

"By the time luncheon was over I could scarcely see Bill at all, he had shrunk so. When it dawned upon me that except for a brace of cruel parents and a stony-hearted fate I might at that moment be married to Bill—married for ten years, with ten years' ballance sheets offered me in the place of handwritten poetry—I gasped out something about an engagement and fled! It wouldn't be so sickening, only——"

"What?" begged the indolent girl.

"Only," confessed the pretty girl who was still young, "Bill seemed exactly as glad to get away from me as I was from him; and, no matter if it has been ten years since a man was in love with you, he hasn't any business changing his mind, even if you have changed yours. Oh, Irene, have you noticed any wrinkles lately or anything wrong with my complexion?"

"Not a line," stated the indolent girl firmly. "You are perfect!"

"And, anyhow," gloomed the heroine of the occasion, "when you have buried a man in your romantic past he ought to know enough to stay dead and interesting, the hateful thing!"

A. A. U. RESENTS ARMY CONTROL OF ATHLETICS

Intercollegiate Athletic Association Adopts Same Attitude

NEW YORK, May 22.—Any attempts made to carry out the war department's plan to control amateur athletics will be entirely ignored by the A. A. U. and the Intercollegiate Athletic association.

This attitude, expressed by one of the high officials of the intercollegiate association, as being the sentiment of both organizations, means that the expected war between the present governing bodies and the new National Amateur federation will not come about.

This official, who refuses to be quoted, returned recently from England, where he said he was asked to bring a warning to the United States not to allow the war department to get control of athletics. In England they regard government control of play as a movement toward Prussianism and after considerable agitation British sportsmen decided to leave control in civilian hands.

The British, like the Americans, found during the war that the physical condition of the young men of the nation was not up to expectations according to the story brought from the other side.

The war department, looking to the possibility of future conflicts, sought some method of laying its hands in an emergency on the best physical specimens in the nation without going through the long process of selection by examination. With this idea it was planned to institute government control of sports. One plan was to divide the nation into districts under the command of an army athletics director who would keep minute records on the performance of all the athletes in his district. All athletes would be numbered and their records would be kept on file so that when a certain quota was called from each district, the officer in charge could turn to his files and draw out the best physical specimens on the list.

Under this plan, instead of being Jones of Blank university or club, the athlete would be No. 265,468 of district 240 and when his number was posted he would have to report if conscription methods of recruiting were in force.

Leading college athletes of the nation so strongly objected to this autocratic plan that they threatened to give up athletics. The opposition became stronger when it was learned that the government was planning athletic meets under a system whereby it could order athlete No. so-and-so to go to such-and-such district to compete in a government meet.

The United States war department has not even hinted that it wants control of amateur athletics in this country, but it has advanced a plan or a general supervision of all amateur sports, and opponents of the plan openly charge that the British method of army control has been approved.

Leaders of the two bodies which now control amateur sport claim that theorists are well qualified to formulate rules, but that they have no qualifications for the executive end of the game. They point out that amateur athletics have prospered and increased under the administration of the A. A. U. and that collegiate sport has been just as successful under the direction of the Intercollegiate Athletic association.

K. C. CONVENTION OPENS WITH BIG REPRESENTATION

63 Subordinate Councils Have Delegates Present at First Session

SANTA CRUZ, May 23.—The twentieth annual state council of the Knights of Columbus opened here today, with delegates in session representing 63 subordinate councils, and a membership of 24,698. In the morning, the state council formally opened with a solemn pontifical high mass at Holy Cross church. Rev. J. J. O'Reilly was celebrant; Rev. J. J. Clifford, state chaplain, deacon; and Rev. J. Dowling, sub-deacon. At 11 o'clock this morning, in Odd Fellows' hall, the initial session of the convention took place, state deputy D. Joseph Coyne of Los Angeles presiding. The convention is open to third-degree members, a large number of whom overflowed the hall, which was well filled with delegates, each council being allowed two voting representatives.

Reports of various state committees and appointment of committees to serve during the convention took up the morning. At 1 o'clock a novel beach fish dinner was held on the Santa Cruz beach, in front of the Casa del Ray, under the auspices of the local Knights of Columbus committee, Enoch Alzina heading the arrangements for the dinner and entertainment.

ANNUAL REPORT W. C. T. U. PRESIDENT

The report of Mrs. Eva C. Wheeler, state president of the W. C. T. U., as read at the convention this afternoon, follows:

ON TO VICTORY

Exultant joy fills our hearts and loving praise lingers on our lips as we pause in our Victorious march to set up the fourtieth milestone on the glorious pathway of the W. C. T. U. We are gathering from beyond the Tehachapi mountains, from fair San Diego, from prosperous Imperial, from inland and coast—gathering in beautiful Glendale soon to be noted for her beautiful schools and churches. "All roads across the continent," they tell us, "lead to Glendale."

Glendale, beautiful for situation, lying as it does between the snow-capped mountains and the blue Pacific has opened its arms wide in loving hospitality to the Southern California W. C. T. U.

Victory and W. C. T. U. are almost synonymous. Webster says "Victory means the defeat of an enemy in battle—success gained in any contest, trial, struggle." Victory means "conquest, triumph." For 48 years the W. C. T. U. has been in a continuous, constant contest with man-kind's greatest foes, and every year our beloved organization has been crowned with success! Every year victory has perched on our banners; God has led us on from victory unto victory:

"Hither and thither, to and fro,
Unceasing as a tidal flow,
Time's glancing shuttle, flying fast
Weaves out another year at last."

In a beautiful spot, on a rocky coast, watching the tides come and go, one is reminded of the work of our organization; patiently, powerfully and persistently wearing away the rocks of prejudice and opposition, stimulating the indifferent, protecting and cleansing the minds of our youth from error and impurity, bearing the breezes of blam and blessing to the suffering and broken-hearted, sweeping away the blight of evil from their lives:

"O blessed tidal wave roll in, roll out,
Roll ever on until you have cleansed
The shores of all the world."

Victories of the Year

The first great victory was the defeat of the anti-medicine beer bill—defeated almost three to one. Then the navy went into the enforcement business. The changed attitude of the public press, especially that recently known as "the wet press," is most startling and encouraging as indicated by the New Year resolutions of the Los Angeles Times:

"To the end that the year 1922 may be the happiest and most fruitful in the history of Southern California, the Times suggests the following resolutions, appropriate to every citizen and association of citizens:

"Reaffirm the Golden Rule; make it a practical precept of every-day living;

"Respect the laws of God and the nation. Uphold the Constitution of the United States. Respect and obey the laws of your country, whether or not you fully agree with all of them.

"Resolve with all earnestness that the Eighteenth amendment shall not be a mockery in the mouths of men, lest disrespect for all law be engendered and the Constitution be undermined and destroyed. And this resolution should be made, solmenly and earnestly, by every right-thinking man and woman with any regard for the future safety and welfare of this nation:

"Henceforth the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States shall be as sacred to me as any part of the Constitution; I will neither violate it, countenance its violation nor flout it with ridicule."

The Times has not always stood true since publishing these resolutions but we appreciate what has been done and is being done by us, and most other state papers, the interest of law and order. Three-fourths of our state newspapers are publishing articles each week written by Hon. C. H. Randall. The W. C. T. U. made this possible by securing the space. Rhode Island, the 46th state, has passed an enforcement law. Only Wisconsin, New Jersey and California have failed to be loyal. Thirty-two counties and 61 towns and cities in California have passed some kind of a "little Volstead" law or ordinance. The enlightened women of our state, through their organizations, have taken their stand as loyal citizens of the United States in support of the Constitution and the proper enforcement of the law, the Los Angeles district, California Federated Women's clubs, in annual convention, the state executive committee, and the recent convention of California Federated Woman's clubs have unanimously passed the following

Resolution

WHEREAS the welfare of our children and the future of our nation depends upon the stability of the Constitution of the United States, and

WHEREAS the Eighteenth Amendment having been ratified by the states, is an integral part of the Constitution, and the Volstead law the act passed by Congress for the enforcement of the same, and

WHEREAS there is a widespread evasion of and disregard of this law in our state, largely due to the fact that enforcement is confined to the 4 Federal Courts and the small number of Federal officers, and

WHEREAS widespread defiance of any law leads to contempt for all law and is a great menace to the safety of our homes and families:

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that we go on record in favor of law enforcement, and odge our members to show their loyalty to the Constitution of the United States by working for, and voting for, at the election in November, the referendum measure known as the Wright Law, which is the law enforcement bill paralleling the Volstead Act and making it the duty of California State Courts and police officers to cooperate with the Federal Government in enforcing the Eighteenth Amendment.

A similar resolution is to be presented to the State Congress of Mothers and Parent Teacher Association by the State Vice President, Mrs. Charles F. Gray, at the annual convention in San Diego this week.

To our great Leader be all the glory of these and all other Victories of the year.

Child Welfare

Our most Victorious Department this year is the winter garden of the W. C. T. U.—the L. T. L. with its new units and we are grateful to the Heavenly Father for sparing dear Mrs. Blair to mother these hundreds of children. He has entrusted to us for guidance and instruction—boys and girls shouting "We will love the Flag; and obey the Law!" means patriotic and loyal citizens for tomorrow who will keep and enforce all good laws, encluding the Eighteenth Amendment.

Our Child Welfare program including the National "Five Pointed Plan" and the Scientific Motherhood Correspondence Courses from the University of California is the finest put out by any state.

The foundation for the Americanization of our great foreign population is laid in the public schools. The opportunity and obligation of training 20,000,000 children, for our part California is leading along many lines but not in all. Issuing a certificate to a beauty culture teacher is the latest duty that the State Department of Education has been called upon to perform. Will C. Wood, State Superintendent of Public Instruction recently remarked, "there has been considerable inquiry regarding the advisability of training beauty experts who desire to make beauty culture a vocation in the public schools. Subjects to be taught would include care and treatment of the hair, marcel waving, manicuring, massaging, proper use of cosmetics and any other general subject pertaining to the promotion and preservation of beauty." Are these of more importance in our over crowded public schools than the reading of the Bible?

Six States have made the reading of the Bible obligatory in the public schools. This has been done by statutory enactment. Six states have said God is yet America's God. His word is safe for the ears of American children. Quite a number of other states have spoken through their Legislatures and Courts making the reading of the Bible in the public schools allowable. California is one of the later. The Bible has been crowded out, not out-lawed from our schools. A letter from Will C. Wood to the Southern California W. C. T. U. says:

"There is no law against reading the Bible in public schols. It is left to the local school board." And Mr. Wool named a collection of Bible Readings that is suitable for this purpose.

"Are all the children in? The night is falling,
When gilded sin doth walk about the streets,
Oh, at the last it biteth like a serpent!
Poisoned are stolen sweets,
Oh. mothers, guard the feet of inexperience,
Too prone to wander in the paths of sin!
Oh, shut the door of love against temptation!
Are all the children in?"

Our Young People

Give the young people the proper training in our homes, churches, and schools, with our Y. P. B. members for leaders and our faith makes us feel assured that they shall not only keep National Constitutional prohibition but also enforce it. Intelligently, highly trained, truly Christian leadership is most essential, for only the Christian spirit prompts to devotion of service of mankind. The Y. P. B. provides that training. Are you standing by the Y. P. B.?

Cigarettes

We are not so interested in the announcement of the American Tobacco Company that last year in the United States its profits were the largest in its history, not so interested that $2,110,000,000 were spent last year in the United States for tobacco, nor are we so interested that 2,000,000 acres of good land was used to produce that which we learned during the war made our soldiers more susceptable to disease and less likely to recover. America may be rich enough to waste land and money but is America rich enough to waste boys and girls? Men and women? We are interested in the fact that one of our largest dailies has so much to say advertising tobacco, that after protests had been received in sufficient number, to cause the editor of that page to publically promise to have nothing more to say in favor or tobacco for a certain time. Broke his word—to tell of an old Welch Preacher who was so irritable, his wife and eleven children could scarcely live with him until—he smoked a "few puffs and went to sleep like a tired baby." Ever after he "smoked and smoked" and his wife's only advise to their daughters was "Never, never, never marry a man who doesn't smoke." The story ended with these words, "And so God rest him! say we. He was a wonder and a glory in Isreal." Another Los Angeles paper this month published the following:

"Woman—(1922 Model)

She was about twenty-four and attractive. She was modishly gowned and while she "rolled her own" her skirts reached far enough below the calf to hide the fact—unless—There was nothing of the flapper about her. Taken altogether she was just what she appeared to be, an average American girl, 1922 model. She boarded the city-bound P. E. car at Highland Avenue, passed to the open section in the front end. There she seated herself. A beaded bag was soon opened and from within appeared a silver case. Opening it, she brought forth a cigarette and a match, with such casualness that her actions went almost unnoticed she lighted the cigarette. Not until the car reached Vermont avenue did she cast it away, and only then because she had finished it. Such is the far-reaching effect of the Nineteenth Amendment that her actions caused no comment."

When editors are so anxious to make a bad habit common by trying to make it appear that it is already common, one wonders how much is received for such untruthful and mis-leading advertising. We are interested in the fact that when the plans for a Womon's new club house were presented recently and those plans provided for a "smoking room," the plans were immediately rejected. We are interested to learn that a new theatre building in Los Angeles found so little use for a "Ladies Smoking Room" that it has been otherwise utilized. We deplore the fact that recently State Commissioner of Horticulture, Hecke, called a conference to discuss tobacco growing in California. Representatives of the Agricultural College of the University of California, the Tobacco Growers Association, California Development Board and various chambers of commerce attended this conference. It was learned that last season 1,500,000 pounds of fornia. It is believed that there are many thousand of acres from Mendocino to San Diego that will grow tobacco without irrigation. A committee of nine was authorized to carry out the conference program. It was intimated that the State University may send an Minor to study conditions and methods for raising Turkish tobacco.

Medical science has proven that because women, and especially girls, have a more delicate nervous system than men, girls' can not fight the poison of the cigarette so long as men, and be strong influence over the child, it is most injurious to the child for mother to smoke.

A noted London scientist recently made two decided pronouncements. He said "Give a girl the cigarette at the age of eleven and let her smoke until she is twenty-one and that girl can never become a mother." "There is no fifth generation to the cigarette smoker." Educators every where are learning these facts and are raising a protesting hand and voice against the direct efforts being made by the Tobacco trusts to induce young boys and girls to contract the cigarette habit. We must protect our children from this, another growing National evil.

Educational Centers

Los Angeles is the first city in the world to open a mother's Educational Center, where women, without cost to the individual, are trained to rear a one-hundred-percent-child. "It is the human spectroscope where the prism of science dissects the complex elements of baby's physical, mental, moral, and spiritual mechanism." The average married woman, or girl, is woefully ignorant. She is untutored in the mysteries of motherhood. The average married man, or boy is willfully ignorant, too often he recognizes no law but his ungoverned desires. We provide expert training for every vocation in life except the most important one—making and training a human soul! We are very proud that Los Angeles is leading the world in a most needed training and thank God that at last we are beginning to put "first things first." We pray that He will enable us to so guard and keep this great center of influence that it may ever be clean and wholesome. But why not a Father's Educational Center as well? Where boys may be taught to protect girls. Where they will be so trained that they will revolt against the crime of bringing a fatherless child into the world. Today mothers and fathers are crying, "Give us a Fathers' Educational Center where our sons may be scientifically taught the super-facts of life, which we are too ignorant to impart." Today wives are crying, "Give us a Fathers' Educational Center that husbands may learn how to live before and after marriage that we may be spared the consequences of crimnal habits contracted in ignorance." Today we need a Fathers' Educational Center where potential fathers of the world may learn to keep pure, that they may transmute strong bodies, active brains and fine ideals to coming generations. The husbands and fathers may no longer say, "In Gods name, why hasn't some-one taught us the sin of an unclean mind and a diseased body? Why were our mothers so modest? Why our fathers so dumb? Why didn't doctors, teachers, or preachers teach us the common decencies of life that would save our wives our children and our selves from physical degredation?"

Motion Pictures

"Despite the admiration for talent and success whether on the stage or in less advertised walks of life," declares the Literary Digest," the happy home is still the ideal of ninety-eight per cent of all people," we fear this is not true of the stars in the entertaining profession. Many of the "rank and file" have characters as well as talent, but too often as success comes there is a disregard of character and a divorce seems to be the most desirable publicity for a movie star. There is a more hopeful outlook. The withdrawal of all Fatty Arbuckle films by Will Hays and the organization of the Church Films Co.," an incorporation to produce, "Christian pictures for Christian people, made by Christian people, made with Christian money," are heralds of the dawn of a better day in filmdom, we trust. Let us hasten that new day by forcing those who would entertain us and our children to realize the extent to which a hold on the public esteem and affection is lost by a divorce suit with its wealth of depressing and unromantic details, that the belief that marriage holds the married pair until death shall part them is still the fundamental belief of the English-speaking world, that the great value of unimpeachable moral and domestic standing must be realized, that talent, without Christian character is a broken reed and unfit for a Christian Civilization, that domestic irregularities are insults to a home loving public, that while we will forgive a political or religious difference, a moral lapse or a domestic lapse we will not overlook, and that a public insulted changes from a sympathetic to an unsympathetic one and that we demand the same nigh ideals of them as of all our other teachers. The W. C. T. U. must become more intensely interested in this the fourth greatest industry in America and the greatest influence upon the children of the nation today!

Loyalty or Rebellion—The Bootlegger or the Constitution—Which?

Bishop Leonard says, "Americans have a perfect right to differ on every thing except the Constitution of the United States." We must stand together on the constitution! A democratic form of government can exist, only so long as the people stand by the fundamental law of the land. In it is rooted every thing that Americans hold dear. Today the bootlegger is violating the Constitution for money, a well organized attack is being made upon the great bulwark of American ideals and American liberty! Until now the greatest element of strength in the Nation has been the cheerful acquiescence of the people to the will of the majority. This was the greatest hope that this republic has had for survival. No one knows whether a Government by, of, and for the people can survive. Those who believe it possible, based their faith on this one characteristic of the American people: that they have yielded without a murmur to the decisions of elections. The very stability of American institutions depends on our respect for laws which we do not vote for. That spirit has been the strength of this new nation. If is the rock upon which our house is being built. For the first time the loosers in the election refuse to accept the verdict. The bootlegger is not making the fight in his own name—he has a variety. Here are a few of the thirty-two. "The Association Opposed to National Prohibition," "The Sanity League of America," "United Brewers Association," "Anti-Prohibition Society of America," "America Liberties League," "Light-wine and Beer League of America," "League of Rights Incorporated," "Manufacturers and Dealers League of City and State of New York," "National Order of Camels," "National Liberal Alliance," "Self Determination League of Liberty," "National Association of Commerce and Labor," "National Association of Manufacturers," "Society for Repel of the Eighteenth Amendment," "National Association Opposed to Prohibition," "National Retail Liquor Dealers Association," "National Federation of Retail Dealers," "Whole-sale Liquor Dealers Association," "Anti-Blue Law League of America Incorporated," "Anti-Dry League," "Liberty Defence League," "National Personal Liberty League," "American Deep Sea Trading Company," "National Personal Liberty League," "National German American Alliance Incorporated," and "Wine for Women Society!"

John Schwaab has reorganized the old German American Alliance of war days fame (or ill fame). You may remember the purpose of that Organization was to maintain and defend German ideals, and second to fight efforts to prohibit the liquor Fraffic, and third, to vote for a party friendly to them. Here are the Purposes of the Association:

1. To get the Volstead Act out of the Law and keep it out.
2. To oppose the passage of similar tyrannical laws.
3. To work patiently? lawfully, fairly and patriotically for the repeal of the Prohibition Amendment and in the hope that the Constitution of the United States will hereafter be preserved from futilation by an organized fanatical minority.

Answers to Questions

"It is our desire to have in every congressional district enough members to influence the nominations and elections, so that the fanatical Prohibitionists, or Prohibitional Candidates will be less likely to be nominated for congress and state legislature and less likely to be voted for if nominated. Every voter against Prohibition should write two letters, one to his political leader, the other to his member in Congress. Sign pledge cards and at the appropriate time take these cards to politicians or members of Congress. We are working to secure signatures to secure referendums on Prohibition. Our branches have the power of deciding what attitude ought to be taken as to saloons locally."—This was published last March!

"Because of the prominence of its members and the novel feature of its program, the Association has received much attention from the press." "We now have a publicity department with a newspaper man in charge and are issuing newspaper articles regularly. We expect ultimately to reach every part of the country with our advertising matter. We found that newspaper advertising serves two purposes. It is an effective method to quickly increase our membership and it makes the Association known." Shall we be wise as serpents?

"This Association is working first to get the Volstead Act repealed, second, to permit every state (under the concurrent clause) to pass its own enforcement act; third, to then remove the Prohibition Amendment from the Constitution. General Rules of the Association are: 1. The Association is non-partisan and non-sectarian, 2. Both men and women are eligible to membership, 3. Dues are $1.00 per year."

This item appeared in the circular "God grants liberty only to those who love it and who are always ready to defend it."

The following account appeared in all the Eastern and some western dailies. New York, May 14, 1922.—With "wine for women" their rallying cry, lady wets of New York today are making plans for a huge Anti Prohibition Campaign. Miss Elizabeth Marbury is the leader. Miss Marbury says "Groups of women are to be organized all over the country working against the Eighteenth Amendment. "The women of the country were the first to demand Prohibition. They will be the first to demand its repeal." "The mothers of the country will wipe out the Eighteenth Amendment," declares Miss Marbury. "Where is the young girl today who does not drink whiskey?" "The women are fighting for the nomination and election of Representatives and Senators committeed to an Amendment of the Volstead Act."

The Bootlegger is the most disgusting, contemptible product of the liquor traffic. He lives under the flag, shares the protection of the constitution and yet sells it for a price. The Bootlegger organizations do not like the Constitution of the United States because the American people put prohibition into it. He knows that he can never get Prohibition out of it. It took thirty-six states to put it in; thirteen states can keep it in. Bootlegging is rapidly developing into the most dangerous process of disentegration and destruction that this nation has ever had to face. A clamorous crowd of Anti-America, anti-law, anti-liberty is crying "Down with the Stars and Stripes. Be done with the Constitution. Away with the courts. We propose to do only that which we deem right in our own eyes." Such are the Bootleggers and their friends that propose to substitute lawlessness for law anarchy for order and license for liberty. How long think you the Republic can continue unless the rebellion is subdued? The issue is "shall men be permitted in this land of law and order to do only that which they deem right in their own eyes? Shall the individual set himself above the law and the constitution?"

When the South defied the Constitution we hurled at them "traitors, rebels, confederates, copperheads." That fight revolved around the Thirteenth Amendment. When did the Thirteenth Amendment become more sacred than the Eighteenth Amendment? When did one part of the Constitution become a thing to be revered and another part of that same Constitution be condemned, despised, profaned, annulled, trampled under the foot of the bootlegger.

This year the Bootlegger in California is again using the name of "The California Grape Protective Association." Its program is to elect men to Congress who will vote to legalize wine and beer. The Constitution forbids, "intoxicating liquors," the Supreme Court of the United States has decided that wine and beer are intoxicating. The California Grape Protective Association wants to get the people of California to vote for a Congress which will violate the Constitution and disregard the unanimous decision of the Supreme Court of the United States.

What is the Wright Law? When the Eighteenth Amendment became part of the Constitution, Congress passed an enforcement act, a law to put the Eighteenth Amendment in force. This Act was known as the Volstead Law. According to the wording of the Amendment and upheld by the decision of the United States Supreme Court, the several states are obligated—it is not optional—obligated to concurrent participation in the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment. What the Constitution commands must be done, the right to refuse does not exist. In obedience to the mandate of Congress, our legislature passed the Harris bill. This was duly signed by the Governor and then referended by the California Grape Protective Association, and at our last election was submitted to the people. California stands alone in the undesirable position of being the only state which by direct vote of the people said, "We will not be loyal to the Constitution. We will not support the Constitution of the United States." The Harris Bill was stronger than the Volstead Law in that it would have made California bone-dry whether the Volstead law was weakened or not. This, I believe, caused the defeat.

Our last Legislature passed the Wright law. It is no weaker, and no stronger than the Volstead law, for should the Volstead law be changed, automatically the Wright law changes. The Wright law was signed by Governor Stephens and again the Bootlegger organization used the referendum and are pledged to defeat it. The Wright law simply applies the national enforcement law to California and makes our courts and police organization a part of the enforcement machinery of the state. The Bootlegger organization is against this law so that the enforcement officers in the state will be so few they can not interfere with their business. The reason for opposition is a desire to protect bootlegging. All the rest is smoke screen.

In spite of all talk of personal liberty and temperence this is a deliberate and diabolical movement to leave the National Constitution undefended, unguarded, and unenforced. What the liquor people want is to make bootlegging and law-breaking flourish in our fair state. For there are only Twenty-nine Federal enforcement officers, and four Federal Courts in the whole state with a 2000 miles of coast line and exposed Mexican border. To defeat the Wright law means to limit all enforcement to these four courts and twenty-nine officers. To sustain the Wright law means to put the 400 state courts and 20,000 state hind its enforcement, and without one dollar added expense. The machinery is here and operative. Not only will there be no added expense, but if the state and the several communities endorse the Wright law all fines and penalties collected through the state and local officials will come into the treasury of State, County or City, whose ordinance or law is violated. These now all go to the Federal Government.

Upon the people of this state and upon the Government of this state lies a profound responsibility for assisting in the enforcement of the Volstead law with all the might and power it can muster. The Federal Government is not some far off institution in a far off land. Neither is California a colony of the United States Government. It is our Government. It is right here. We are it. It is as much our duty and responsibility to enforce its laws as to obey any state or Amendment is as much California's law as any or our own state statutes and whatever legislation is necessary to enforce it—this state must enact.

Many of you have heard me tell of the American flag being insulted by an Australian soldier, but we need not go to far away Australia to find hatred of our beloved banner. There is in Santa Clara County a little Spanish mission. The missionary and his wife, both Spanish people love our flag—their flag— and always keep a tiny one flying over the mission. An old barn near by was the meeting place of the local bootlegger's organization. They hated the missionary and the flag. A campaign to pass a little Volstead law was on in the county, the disloyal bootlegger association hitched a team of horses to the flag pole, pulled it down, trailed the American flag in the dust, and trampled it under fool. The little mission caught fire, but the loyal missionary rushed to the rescue of his beloved flag. This incident so enraged the citizens of Santa Clara County that on election day the county voted dry for the first time in its history. The missionary presented the flag that had been insulted to the A. S. L. and Dr. Montgomery loaned it to me for this occasion. Sisters, this is the American flag that has literally been insulted by California bootleggers!

President Harding in addressing a great church gathering recently said:

"There is no higher service that the church in a time like this may render than to put forth its utmost influence in behalf of obedience to the law of the land. It is absolutely essential to the maintenance of a secure society and to the statement of a proper moral plane that the law should be recognized as sacred and supreme. It should have at its back and enlisted in its support every element of the community that realizes the desirability of sound, secure, and stable institutions. Disregard of one statute inevitably must breed a lack of respect for the law in general.

Therefore I can think of no higher service that the church in a time like this may render than to put forth its utmost influence in behalf of frank and willing obedience to the law of the land. Therein, I think, will be found the largest contribution toward guaranty of the nation's safety, the most promising assurance of ultimate realization of the highest aspirations of the church in behalf of all humanity."

This from the Chief Executive of the nation!

The liquor people did not beat us in 1920—it was the 32,128 dry voters in Southern California that did not take the trouble to go to the poles and the 18,491 who went to the poles and voted on some measures but were not enough interested to vote on the wet and dry measures.

Our task in this campaign is to win the 51,619 in Southern Californi to loyalty and patriotism and to help elect clean, loyal officials in city, county and state, and to Congress. We must defeat the bootlegger campaign for a disloyal majority in Congress. Officials must be true Americans. Unflinchingly loyal to the Constitution, to American ideals, standing for enforcement of all law, reverence for the Nation's God. The aspirants must be keen and eager to hold to the lines on all moral issues and posessed with a hatred for disloyal law-breakers if they are to honestly serve this state as they must announce when they take the oath of office. Its a big man's job. Let big men and women step forth and be appointed.

God send us statesmen of vision,
Not mere politicians with sordid ambitions,
But brave fearless men of decision.

God give us men—how we want them!
Men of justice and might, who will die for the right
While no threatenings or dangers can daunt them.

Hon. C. H. Randal says:

"California invites the world! This is a favorite slogan of the loyal California Booster who is always proud to proclaim her virtues to the world. But a new kind of invitation is going broadcast to the world. It is a proclamation that California is violating the Eighteenth Amendment and has not enacted a law to enforce this provision of the Federal Constitution. The result is a declaration by Prohibition Commissioner Haynes that California is the wettest state in the Union, except New York, and he gives as a reason, that California officials do not cooperate with Federal Enforcement officers, and that the state has no enforcement law as is provided that it shall have by the Eighteenth Amendment."

We need not be discouraged, the prohibition forces are much more effectively organized than their opponents. Thirty-five evangelistic denominations with a membership of 24,000,000, two-thirds of which are voters and two Roman Catholic organizations with about 1,000,000 voters, 120,000 enrolled pulpits from which pastors actively and continuously are supporting the Prohibition cause, the Prohibition party, the A. S. L. and our own W. C. T. U. with more than half a million members are the back-bone of the loyal patriotic movement today but we can not lay down our arms.

Miss Anna Gordon says:

"We can not break ranks. Much territory remains to be possessed for our foundation principles of total abstinence and prohibition. We thank God for the Eighteenth Amendment that legally breaks down the bulwarks of our enemy. But today he fights in the open. He is very much alive as a law breaker and a beer bolshevist. Though he has no heart and never possessed a conscience, he has a brain that works overtime. He has money to buy newspaper space and unscrupulous politicians. He would like to make the W. C. T. U. believe that its warfare against alcohol is accomplished and that the law enforcement need not be our great objective."

Sisters, we are not only facing a new contest with the liquor forces it is a world challenge as well. Will you pardon a personal reference? On board a great steamer fourteen hours out from the Golden Gate harbor the captain was giving a dinner to the first class passengers. When the time came when drinks are usually served he arose and said: "Out of respect to Mrs. Wheeler who has been so active in helping provide amusement for us during this voyage, there will be no liquors served at dinner tonight. We all know of Mrs. Wheeler's prejudice against drinking and in her honor and in honor of the country which we enter tomorrow morning, the country which has voted out the drink trade, no liquor will be served." The cheer that followed was entered into by less than half the guests.

Mother Nation has made a public statement that she will meet the publicity being sent out by opponents of the Prohibition Amendment with publicity of our own. Beginning with the Lincoln edition of the Union Signal. She says: "Sound the alarm. We are going to talk down "Prohibition is a failure" and talk up "Prohibition is a success." Every day of these weeks and every week of these months before election will be filled with high-powered, well paid activities on the part of the thirty-two organizations opposed to Prohibition. We intend to do all we can to counteract this propaganda.

Still work to do? Yes, plenty of it, but it is fascinating work, full of rich opportunity. The larger call of the world today adds new zest to the joy of service and the appeal is so strong that every loyal heart should leap to enlist. We can not rest now. We must 'carry on" and see the end. Victory awaits us.

Nellis Louise Castle sends this appropriate poem.

The nation now badly needs workers,
Needs hearts that are loyal and true,
To save it from dire destruction—
My Sister, it's needing you!
In the name of the Master, come forward;
Don't you hear the calling note?
If you do, you will go and register,
Then go to the polls and vote.

Our country needs hearts that are faithful,
As it did when the crusaders took hand.
What a grand work has been planned and accomplished
By that true, faithful temperance band!
Whenever we wanted a law passed,
For it we begged for the men to vote—
How we wished that we could register
And go to the polls and vote.

So our leaders declared to be equal
In the eyes of the law with man,
The women must have the ballot
To carry out every plan.
Now that we have the ballot
To cut old Alcohol's throat,
We must not forget to register
And go to the polls and vote.

Thou Woman, God's crowning creation,
Made for a helpmeet for Man,
Arouse and do your whole duty
When and wherever you can.
Our Constitution, King Rum will destroy
If we don't take the "Wright Law" boat—
And be sure to go and register,
And then for the Wright Law vote.

On that notable December 24, when the first W. C. T. U. prayer meeting was held in the snow on the streets before a saloon, and prayer closed that saloon—that was a wonderful victory! When the first city voted dry, a great victory! When the first state voted dry—that was a great victory! When the Eighteenth amendment was written into the organic law of our great land, that was a greater victory! When the Eighteenth amendment has the law of every state behind it and it is respected and as well enforced as any law is enforced—that will be the greatest victory! Sisters, California must be loyal. Up and on—on to Victory!

"Art thou a woman, one whose home
Is in fair California, where the sun
Kisses into life and gladness
All nature and strives to banish sadness?

A woman, on whom we lean for help,
In guiding the ship of state, as a queen
Is depended on by faithful subjects,
One who has the scepter to command.

Art thou a woman, worthy of the name?
May it ne'er be said, "Thou art to blame,
For defeat in any high and holy cause"—
Woman, at this thought, I pray you, pause.

A woman, a citizen, ruler, queen—
Above all, a mother on whom children lean
For council, advice, guidance and defense—
If so, they will not find a mere pretense.

In such a time as this, be a woman true;
Use your sacred right, and in lieu
Of fear, be brace, walk in the light,
And cast a vote for purity and right.

Go, proud woman, in hand your scepter wield;
Your homes and children from danger shield;
California calls you—will you come
And free her fair land from the curse of rum!"

"Thanks be to God who giveth us the Victory through our Lord, Jesus Christ."

RECOMMENDATIONS

That we continue the membership campaign.

That a strenuous effort, with a definite plan be used to place each union on the Tri-Team Honor Roll.

The Pomona Plan—Pomona W. C. T. U. presented our needs to the ministerial Union and secured a pledge of a date in every church in the city this year, with the privilege of soliciting members or money or both.

The Whittier Plan—The Missionary Societies of Whittier have invited the local W. C. T. U. to furnish one program for them during the campaign.

That we have a membership week each quarter during the year.

That immediately, when members are pledged, that a definite effort shall be made for collection of dues.

That the Budget plan be continued.

That from June 1 to November 8 the Wright law campaign shall be the first and most important business of every union.

That special work be done by State W. C. T. U. campaign committee in those counties where help is especially needed.

I wish to publicly thank each state officer and county president for your loyal support during the past year, particularly in the strenuous work of raising the budget, whirlwind membership campaign and Regional Conferences, as well as to command the State Superintendents and the rank and file, for the splendid work done by them. You have all been very patient and helpful this trying year, while your leader was learning all the new duties and trying to assume all the unaccustomed responsibilities, trying to recognize and use each new opportunity that came with the new relationship. I bespeak the same consideration and kindness for whoever may lead you the coming year.

They used to say of the late Louis James that he was one of the greatest humorists and practical jokers in stage history. It is recounted of him that on a certain occasion, in one of the Shakesperean tragedies, having to shake hands with a brother tragedian, he left clutched inescapably in the latter's fist a fat, raw oyster, which the unfortunate individual was obliged to keep by him through the remainder of the scene.

Blobb's wife was ill, and, of course, he was looking worried; also, there was an angry gleam in his eye.

"What's the matter, Bill?"

"Matter? Everything's the matter! My wife—you know my wife, a big woman, a great woman—but she can't do the washing while she's ill. I sent her nightdress to the laundry. They sent it back with a note: 'We don't wash tents.'"

Many a man's virtue is due to the fact that an interesting brand of temptation has never been handed him.

Assert in the presence of women that a woman pursued a man, and you have a row on your hands at once.

Babson's Letter

Discussing the investment situation, Roger W. Babson makes the following statement: "Dividend cuts have become an every day occurrence and promise to continue at their present rate for at least another year.

"Last month's payments on American industrial stocks, common and preferred, were $8,100,000 less than in November, 1919, and $5,300,000 less than in November last year. This represents a loss of 23.7% or nearly one-fourth compared with 1919 and 16.6%, or one-sixth less than last year.

"There is nothing particularly alarming about such a development as it is but one of the characteristics of the period of the depression in every business cycle.

"The trouble lies in the fact that the general investing public does not seem to have been aware of this fact. As I go about the country I am appalled by lists shown me—not only by the widow and untrained youth but by the man who is keen in his own business. Their lists of "investments" are generally overloaded with stocks which at times pay dividends. They have counted on these as income and are very seriously embarrassed as a result of the cut in dividends. Their unfortunate position is due to their disregard of a very fundamental point.

"Stocks have an essential place in our financial structure. Without the commitment of some funds to the risks of production, transportation and merchandising—buying goods with the hope of selling for profit—business could not be done. The purchaser of common and preferred stocks is furnishing money for these purposes. His stock certificate establish no obligation in his favor but simply certifies that he has a proportionate interest in the business. He is a partner in the broader sense of the word and subjects himself to the risks of proprietorship and takes the profits when there are any. One should not enter into this position without realizing he is specultaing.

"Investment on the other hand is placing your money for a definite income. The man who buys bonds or notes is a landlord in the broad sense of the term. He has loaned money to the concern and has a mortgage on a part of its real property. He must be paid his return whether the business makes a profit or not and can foreclose and sell its assets to reimburse himself for his original investment if it is necessary to take such steps. His money is loaned for a definite period. It must be paid back as money at a fixed date and the agreed rental must be returned at stated periods in the meantime. The market value of good bonds rises in proportion as its income will buy more food and clothes, not as a particular line of business becomes more or less profitable. A steady and assured income of a pre-determined amount therefore takes the place of the uncertain profit or profits, due the stockholder.

"Too many persons who want an investment—who believe they have an investment—are holding on to common and preferred stocks from which income has ceased and which for the present may not even be a good gamble.

"Some lines of industry have been thoroughly liquidated both internally and market wise. Their stocks today should be bought—but bought as a speculation by those who realize that they are speculating. For the near future and for years to come the conservatively financed, efficiently operated business will show a profit and will pay a profit to their stockholders. Their next door neighbors, however, may be headed for the sheriff's sale or scrap heap, and dividend cuts will continue to be present.

"Decide whether you want to invest for income or speculate for profit. For investment buy sound bonds—for speculation buy a broad list of stocks. If you are not following this basic principle for placing your money, set your house in order at once. You will make more by rearranging your securities now than waiting for a chance to "get out whole."

The Babsonchart reflects a very satisfactory seasonal rise in general business. Last week's point—17% below normal—has been bettered by 3%. General business today is 14% below normal.

Johnny had used some unparliamentary language, much to his mother's distress. "Johnny," she cried, "do stop using such dreadful expressions; I can't imagine where you pick them up."

"Well, mother," Johnny replied, "Shakespeare uses them."

"Then don't play with him again," commanded his mother. "He's not a fit companion for you, I'm sure."

"We will" does ten times as much as "you shall."

It is better to turn back than go astray.

The Barton Bedtime Stories

FRISK TRIES A TUFT FR OM TAD COON'S TAIL

By JOHN BARTON

(Copyright, 1921, by Associated Newspapers)

Frisk Squirrel's ear-tufts? Where would he get them if he didn't wait for them to grow? Why steal them, of course. From whom? That would be telling.

And that wasn't the reason he tagged Tad Coon all around when the kind old rascal came over to go frogging in the Beaver Pond. It was 'cause frogging is such fun. Foxy Tad taught the smart baby to perch in a hickory sapling which reached out its arms where he could see everything that was going on. He'd squeal and point his little paw at where froggy was hiding. Then he'd hold his breath till froggy was pounced on. And then—he could shout all he pleased, yes, and have a drumstick to pick into the bargain.

When the two of them were just spang full to the eyebrows Tad flopped down for a doze. "But don't you try it," he warned his playmate. "You go back to your dark hole if you want to do any sleeping. The hawks can't carry me, like they could you. I can hear any one big enough to hurt me if I snooze with one ear open.

"Want to know why I do it out here in the sun?" Tad smiled roughishly. "It's so the shadows can wake me when they've crept this far around. Then they'll shade that log where I do my fishing. I can't fish now because the scaly little shiners would see me moving. But if you're here when I wake up I'll show you something tasty to crackle your little teeth on—yum!"

Did Frisk go home? Not he. He was too afraid his mammy'd make him stay right there to punish him for sneaking out this time. He'd rather hang around and wake Tad up if any one bothered him. But as he sat there, still as a mouse, he got to thinking——.

Tad Coon's tail! Wasn't it handsome? Not that lovely green, Daddy Green-crest had on his feathers, but black tip and a snowy white band next, and a pretty tan at the bottom. And then tan almost matched his little fur coat. Yes, ear-tips like that would be very becoming. With his sharp little teeth he snipped off two sweet little coon-hair plumes.

He tucked them in his ears, trying very hard not to pay attention to the way they tickled him, and crept out on Tad's log to look at himself in the water. There he sat perking his head this way and that, quite in love with himself. He thought he looked stunning. But before he could try to swim a teasy little breeze whisked them off across the water. They wouldn't stay on!

BUSHNELL MOVES MILLINERY SHOP

The Bushnell Millinery Parlor has moved from 1510 South Brand boulevard to 114 West Broadway, over the Gas company's office, and is adding to its already good stock of millinery, which will give this store a very large line of the latest in hats, etc. Being an expert in this line and having a very low overhead expense the Bushnell Millinery Parlor promises to save its patrons real money on every hat bought.

LADIES' TOGGERY SALE PROGRESSES

The stock of the Ladies' Toggery Shop, 133 South brand, is going rapidly and those who desire to take advantage of this closing out sale to get hats, corsets, skirts, etc. at their own price, should visit the Toggery Shop at once. The lease and fixtures are also for sale. Mrs. Meithardt, the owner, is closing out because of ill health, and is an expert in her line, having built up a good business here.

OBSERVATIONS

By the Oldest Inhabitant

It is greatly to be regretted that the Christian church congregation have been compelled to postpone the dedication of their handsome new building for a month owing to the inability of the contractor to complete the job on time, as the date originally selected, June 4, is, as nearly as can be determined, the 1893d anniversary of the establishment of the first Christian church, which was in Jerusalem on the Day of Pentecost, in the year 29 A. D. Pentecost, one of the sacred feast days of the Jews, was 50 days after the passover Sabbath, which occurred that year, it has been calculated, on Saturday, April 14, as we count time. Fifty days later would be the Lord's Day, June 4, and it was then that the truly converted Peter preached that remarkable, plain-spoken sermon that resulted in the conversion and baptism of 3000 people.

Perhaps you wonder at my statement that the passover week in which the Christ was crucified was in the year 29 A. D., when it is known that Jesus was about 33½ years old when he died. But his birth occurred near the close of the year 5 B. C., as we count time. An error of a little over four years in calculating the calendar caused this discrepancy, so that really we are now but seven years from the 1900th anniversary of the founding of the Church of Christ. I wonder that the Christian peoples of the world are not agitating the question of celebrating this anniversary of the most wonderful and beneficent event in the world's history.

Stirred by the unenviable notoriety attained as having more people killed by auto per capita than any other city in the United States, the Los Angeles authorities resolved recently, for the 55th time, that something must be done to curb the reckless speeders. The police judges, who had been accused of imposing light fines, letting off those who had a pull and suspending jail sentences imposed, announced that hereafter they were going to be awfully stern yes, sir, they would stop this mild slapping on the wrist for the criminal offenses of reckless autoists, and give some stiff sentences. And they did. Just listen. One man was given five whole days in jail for speeding 47 miles an hour, on crowded Long Beach boulevard, only 22 miles over the speed limit, and for having no operator's license. Another man, who made only 44 miles an hour in the 20-mile zone, was given the appalling sentence of three great, long days of 24 hours each in the county jail. Forty-four miles an hour on Pico street, one of the main thoroughfares, was thought by the stern justice to merit three days in jail, and a like sentence was imposed on a man who drove his auto into a crowd of six persons, injuring two of them. The city authorities are temporizing with this awful murder fest just as they formerly did with the death-dealing, character-wrecking saloon. The auto killing could be decreased nine-tenths in less than 30 days if the "injustices," as Charles Reade called them in one of his novels, would enforce the laws they falsely swore to uphold. If the speed maniac were given 30 days in jail and debarred from again driving an auto for a year, very few would dare a second offense. The man or woman who needlessly endangers human life should be deprived of the weapon used in thus defying the laws. And the auto in charge of an untamed driver is one of the deadliest weapons seen on the streets.

The Ku Klux Klan, which was organized by the white planters of the South in the reconstruction days following the Civil war to curb the activities of the jubilant negroes who, freed from slavery in many instances sought to revenge themselves on their former masters, became, finally, in the hands of unscrupulous whites, an instrument of dire oppression of negroes of all classes. It was finally put down by public sentiment and the strong arm of the law. This later klan seems to have some high ideals, but the trouble is, they leave the law out of their reckoning and, though in many instances it is very poorly enforced, yet mob law will not take its place.

The recent appearance of a dramatization of "Jane Eyre" at a local theatre reminds me that there is a distant cousin of the author, Charlotte Bronte, living in Glendale. This is Mrs. John Sharpe. Her grandfather and Miss Bronte's grandfather were brothers. There were five of the brothers and their home was in Ireland. The name was Prunty, then, and four of the brothers continued to bear that name and transmitted it to their families. The fifth one went to France and there his name was pronounced Brunty by his neighbors. His children still further Frenchified it by writing it Bronte, with an accented e, and it was pronounced "Brawng-tae." Charlotte and Emily Bronte always spelled their names in the French fashion. It is related of Charlotte Bronte that she and her sister were once talking of the tendency of authors to paint their heroines as transcedently beautiful, and finally she told Emily she would write a novel, the heroine of which would be as small and plain as herself. The result was Jane Eyre, and its reception and subsequent popularity, which has increased with the years, certainly justified her faith.

I'm mighty glad to see the east side coming into its own again, for we should remember that once upon a time, only 30 odd years ago, that was all of Glendale. It was the cradle of the infant city, now grown to be a giant. And we might remember that it has one of the costliest buildings in the city, the Harrower laboratory; will soon have a magnificent million-dollar high school plant, and may have a half-million dollar hostelry. Let's not fuss, neighbors, but work together heartily to build up still more our wonderful city. I am longing for the time when I can, in an auto, turn off of Verdugo road, coming south, on to Sycamore Canyon boulevard, follow its graceful curve to the south, cross Broadway, and speed down to the junction with Acacia and finally reach Brand at Cypress avenue. This is destined to be one of the scenic highways of Glendale, bordered with beautiful homes and citrus groves, and very likely a double-track car line will occupy its center from Broadway south and curve around to the Cypress-Brand junction.

SYDNEY, Nova Scotia.—Lobster fishing on the Cape Breton coast began on May 1, instead of May 16, as formerly.

RESOLUTION OF INTENTION NO. 1503

A RESOLUTION OF THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF GLENDALE DECLARING ITS INTENTION TO IMPROVE A PORTION OF THOMPSON AVENUE, IRVING AVENUE, RAYMOND AVENUE AND EIGHTH STREET AND CERTAIN STREETS AND ALLEYS INTERSECTING THEREWITH IN THE CITY OF GLENDALE AND DESCRIBING THE DISTRICT TO BE ASSESSED TO PAY THE COSTS AND EXPENSES OF SAID IMPROVEMENT AND PROVIDING BONDS FOR THE PAYMENT OF SAME.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF GLENDALE:

SECTION 1. That the public interest and convenience require and it is the intention of the Council of the City of Glendale to order the following work and improvement to be done, to-wit:

First: That Thompson Avenue from the southerly curb line of Tenth Street to the northerly curb line of Eighth Street, including all intersections of streets, except those portions as are already graded to the official line and grade, be graded to the official grade heretofore established therefor, the same to be done in accordance with Plan No. 520, Profile No. 818, and Specifications therefor, adopted by the Council of the City of Glendale and designated as Specifications No. 39.

Second: That a four (4) inch Class "B" cast iron water pipe be laid in Thompson Avenue and across all intersecting streets and alleys along a line nineteen (19) feet easterly of and parallel to the westerly line of Thompson Avenue, said pipe to extend from a line eleven and fifty hundredths (11.50) feet northerly of and parallel to the southerly line of Tenth Street to a line nineteen (19) feet northerly of and parallel to the southerly line of Eighth Street, together with all connections, valves and appurtenances, all as shown on Plan No. 520-W, and Profile No. 813, said pipe and appurtenances to be used for fire protection and the distribution of the municipal water supply of the City of Glendale. Said pipe shall be laid in accordance with said Plan and Profile and between the points on the lines and grades and at the elevations designated thereon, and said pipe connections, valves and appurtenances shall be constructed in accordance with the Plans and Profile therefor, designated as Plan No. 439, Plan No. 520-W, and Profile No. 813, and in accordance with Specifications therefor, adopted by the Council of the City of Glendale and designated as Specifications No. 42 for furnishing and laying cast iron water pipe in the City of Glendale.

Third: That a cement curb of the class designated as Class "B" in the hereinafter referred to Specifications be constructed along each side of the roadway of Thompson Avenue from the southerly curb line of Tenth Street to the northerly curb line of Eighth Street, including all returns at all intersecting streets and alleys, except where said curb has already been constructed, in accordance with Plan No. 520, Profile No. 813, and Specifications for said work adopted by the Council of the City of Glendale and designated as Specifications No. 31.

Fourth: That a cement sidewalk of the width of five (5) feet be constructed along each side of the roadway of Thompson Avenue from the southerly curb line of Tenth Street to the northerly curb line of Eighth Street, except where sidewalk is already constructed to the official line and grade. Said work to be done in accordance with Plan No. 520, Profile No. 813, and Specifications for said work adopted by the Council of the City of Glendale and designated as Specifications No. 31.

Fifth: That a cement gutter be constructed along each side of the roadway of Thompson Avenue from the southerly curb line of Tenth Street to the northerly curb line of Eighth Street and around all curb returns on all intersecting streets, said gutters shall be three (3) feet in width and five (5) inches in thickness and shall be constructed in accordance with Plan No. 520, Profile No. 813, and Specifications for said work adopted by the Council of the City of Glendale and known as Specifications No. 31.

Sixth: That all of the roadway of Thompson Avenue between gutter lines from the southerly curb line of Tenth Street to the northerly curb line of Eighth Street, including all intersections of streets or alleys, be oiled and surfaced in accordance with Plan No. 520, Profile No. 813, and Specifications for said work adopted by the Council of the City of Glendale and known as Specifications No. 39.

SECTION 2.

First: That Irving Avenue from the northerly curb line of Tenth Street to the southerly curb line of Eighth Street, including all intersections of streets or alleys, except those portions as are already graded to the official line and grade, be graded to the official grade heretofore established therefor, the same to be done in accordance with Plan No. 520, Profile No. 824, and Specifications for said work adopted by the Council of the City of Glendale and known as Specifications No. 39.

Second: That a four (4) inch Class "B" cast iron water pipe be laid in Irving Avenue and across all intersecting streets and alleys along a line nineteen (19) feet easterly of and parallel to the westerly line of Irving Avenue, said pipe to extend from a line eleven and fifty hundredths (11.50) feet northerly of and parallel to the southerly line of Tenth Street to a line nineteen (19) feet northerly of and parallel to the southerly line of Eighth Street, together with all connections, valves and appurtenances, all as shown on Plan No. 520-W, and Profile No. 812, said pipe and appurtenances to be used for fire protection and the distribution of the municipal water supply of the City of Glendale. Said pipe shall be laid in accordance with said Plan and Profile and between the points on the lines and grades and at the elevations designated thereon, and said pipe connections, valves and appurtenances shall be constructed in accordance with the Plans and Profile therefor, designated as Plan No. 439, Plan No. 520-W, and Profile No. 812, and in accordance with Specifications therefor, adopted by the Council of the City of Glendale and designated as Specifications No. 42 for furnishing and laying cast iron water pipe in the City of Glendale.

SECTION 4.

First: That an eight (8) inch Matheson Joint pipe be laid in Eighth Street and across all intersecting streets and alleys along a line nineteen (19) feet northerly of and parallel to the southerly line of Eighth Street, said pipe to extend from the easterly line of Raymond Avenue to the easterly line of Allen Avenue, together with all connections, valves, fire hydrants and appurtenances, all as shown on Plan No. 520-W, and Profile No. 814, said pipe and appurtenances to be used for fire protection and the distribution of the municipal water supply of the City of Glendale. Said pipe shall be laid in accordance with said Plan and Profile and between the points on the lines and grades and at the elevations designated thereon, and said pipe connections, valves, fire hydrants and appurtenances shall be constructed in accordance with the Plans and Profile therefor, designated as Plan No. 439, Plan No. 520-W, Plan No. 448, Profile No. 814, and in accordance with Specifications therefor, adopted by the Council of the City of Glendale and designated as Specifications No. 44 for furnishing and laying Matheson Joint pipe in the City of Glendale.

SECTION 5. That said contemplated work or improvement in the opinion of said Council is of more than local or ordinary public benefit and will affect and benefit the lands and district hereinafter described, and said Council hereby declares that the district in said City of Glendale benefitted by said work or improvement and to be assessed to pay the costs and expenses thereof, is all that portion of said City included within the following exterior boundary lines, to-wit:

Beginning at the most northerly corner of Lot 22, Block 1, Tract No. 4585, as per map recorded in Book 50, page 11 of Maps, Records of Los Angeles County, California; thence southeasterly along the northeasterly line of Lot 22 of said Block 1 of Tract No. 4585 and its southeasterly prolongation to the most northerly corner of Lot 21 of said Block 1; thence northeasterly along the northwesterly lines of Lots 19, 17, 15, 13, 11, 9 and 7 of said Block 1 to the most northerly corner of said Lot 7; thence northerly in a direct line to the most westerly corner of Lot 4 of said Block 1; thence northeasterly along the northwesterly line of said Lot 4 and along its northeasterly prolongation to the northeasterly line of Tenth Street; thence southeasterly along the northeasterly line of Tenth Street to an intersection with the northeasterly prolongation of the southeasterly line of Lot 4, Tract No. 4591, as per map recorded in Book 50, page 35 of Maps, Records of said County; thence southwesterly along the northeasterly prolongation of the southeasterly line of said Lot 4 and along the southeasterly lines of Lots 4, 8, 10, 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, and 42 of said Tract No. 4591 and along the southwesterly prolongation of the southeasterly lines of said Lots to an intersection with the southeasterly prolongation of the southwesterly line of Lot 25, Tract No. 4765, as per map recorded in Book 51, page 44 of Maps, Records of aforesaid County; thence northwesterly along the southeasterly prolongation of the southwesterly line of said Lot 25 and along the southwesterly lines of Lots 25 and 26 of said Tract No. 4765 to the most westerly corner of said Lot 26; thence northeasterly in a direct line to the most easterly corner of Lot 21, Block 3, of aforesaid Tract No. 4585; thence northwesterly along the northeasterly lines of Lots 21 and 22 of said Block 3, Tract No. 4585, to the southeasterly line of Allen Avenue; thence northeasterly along the southeasterly line of Allen Avenue to the point of beginning, excepting therefrom any portion of any public street or alley which may be included within the above described district. STATE INDIANS TO PERSIST IN THEIR CLAIMS

Despite Adverse Report of Secretary Fall They Will Push Appeal

Having performed their mission, by putting before the Secretary of the Interior, the Commissioner of Indian Affairs and the Senate and House Committees on Indian Affairs, the plea of the California Indians, the nine Indian delegates sent to Washington by their own people to ask the enactment by Congress of the California Indians' Court of Claims Bill have returned to California with an entirely new point of view, not only as to the consistency of Congressmen and governmental officials, but as to the payment of debts.

By their Court of Claims bill they have asked Congress to permit them to take their case before the United States Court of Claims to present their claims for compensation for their lands based on the eighteen treaties negotiated with them by the United States Government in 1851-2. They believe the government owes them a debt, and all they ask is permission to go before the court, present their claims for adjudication, get the decision of the court as to whether or not they have a case, and if their claims are allowed have the amount determined and collect the debt.

This is what the nine Indian delegates of the California Indians, in following the prescribed procedure for having their Court of Claims Bill brought before Congress for enactment, told the Commissioner of Indian Affairs Charles H. Burke, the Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall, the Senate and House Committees on Indian Affairs, at the hearings accorded them. This is their presentation of their plea to be allowed to go before the court and ask payment of a debt they believe the United States Government, by its own negotiations with them, by its own promises to them, by its own act in dispossessing them of their property without compensation, owes them. What the government has given them in inadequate appropriations and relief they offer in their bill to count as offset in making settlement; but settlement of the debt is what they ask, not aid nor gratuities.

Their plea was favorably considered in 1920. Their bill was approved by the late Secretary of the Interior Franklin K. Lane, by Acting Secretary Alexander T. Vogelsang, by the succeeding Secretary of the Interior Barton Payne, by Commissioner of Indian Affairs Cato Sells, unanimously approved by the Senate and House Committees on Indian Affairs, passed by the Senate of the 66th Congress on the unanimous consent calendar, failed of passage by the House because of the crowded calendar, and therefore had to be submitted again.

With change of administration came change of policy as to the California Indians' plea; or it may be change of point of view as to what constitutes payment of a debt.

The same bill was offered to run the gamut again. The change of policy appeared in the report made from the Interior Department, June 17, 1921, by Acting Secretary Finney. This report advised a direct appropriation from Congress instead of enactment of the Court of Claims bill permitting the California Indians to take their case to court for adjudication.

This report, and the openly expressed opposition of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs to their Court of Claims Bill, impelled the California Indians organized in the Indian Auxiliaries of the Indian Board of Co-operation to send their delegates to Washington, to put before the various officials and the committees of Congress directly by Indians the Indian preference for a court decision as to their cleams. These delegates came to Washington on January. Although they found a change of policy as to their plea for a day in court there was no change of mind as to their condition. Even as Acting Secretary Finney had recognized in his report that "their condition is in some respect deplorable," Commissioner Burke, when the Indian delegates were received by him, greeted them as "representatives of the poorest Indians in the whole country," and at the hearing before the Senate Committee on Indian Affairs spoke feelingly of "their deplorable condition." Secretary Fall at the two-hour hearing he accorded them expressed recognition of their need; and at the hearing before the House Committee on Indian Affairs there was frank admission by the members of the committee of the wrongs these Indians had suffered and the need of righting them. But as to considering the righting of them in the terms of a debt to be paid——.

Tere is the changed policy of the present moment in Secretary Fall's own words:

"I cannot see my way clear to modify my report that I have already made upon the jurisdictional bills that would authorize the submission to the Court of Claims of the claim of the California Indians, and cannot see my way clear to approve any bill that has for its purpose compensating the Indians upon the basis of the value of the lands involved in the 18 treaties rejected by the Senate in 1852. In the hearings and reports, the amount that would be involved, without taking into consideration the question of interest, would be about ten millions of dollars."

"It is my policy that, where Indians are without any tribal property and are in indigent circumstances, the Government should extend to them liberal aid in providing for their care and comfort and in aiding them in having the advantages of education and civilization to the end that they may not only become self-supporting but that they may become useful citizens of the country, with homes in which to live. The proposition as contained in the jurisdictional bills contemplates the ascertainment of a lump sum in the nature of compensation to be divided pro rata among the descendants of the 210,000 Indians said to have been in California in 1852, without any regard as to whether such persons are in need of assistance and without any regard as their qualifications to wisely use the money that they might receive.

"My suggestion would be for a definite roll of the California Indians to be made, through this Department, that would show the blood status of each Indian and his or her condition, to determine their actual needs, with a view to legislation that would have for its purpose extending to such Indians as are in need of such necessary relief as would be for their best interests and advancement, including homes for those having families.

"If I am convinced that more liberal appropriations should be made for the California Indians than have been made heretofore and bills should be introduced in the Congress having in view the relief that I have indicated, such bills will unhesitatingly have my recommendation; but I will not endorse bills compensation as is contemplated by the pending measures."

How the Indian delegates, speaking for their own people, regard this policy and advice is expressed by them in this letter, their reply to Secretary Fall, which also contains the substance of their separate pleas to the Senate and House Committees on Indian Affairs:

"After careful consideration of your proposal we beg to advise you that we are not so much interested in the limited relief that might be obtained through gratuitous appropriations as we are in a just and final disposal of the California Indian problem. We believe that this can be done best under the provisions of the California Court of Claims Bill. We, therefore, have agreed to press our case for the enactment of that bill.

"We have reached this decision after carefully reviewing the scanty relief heretofore granted to the California Indians in the form of gratuitous appropriations by the Congress, the great stress that is now being placed on economy and the further fact that it is not reasonable that this Congress could, in its short life, conclude the work, and that it would have to be resumed by another Congress, which might adopt an entirely different policy."

Their bill still is in the hands of the committees, its fate at this session of Congress still undecided. On one side is the pressure of "the administration policy" which in all the activities and ramifications of the government is exercising such potency. On the other side is the Indians' protest that "We do not see in such temporary relief and bestowal of occasional benefits as appropriations from Congress and help from the Office of

MOTOR GENERATORS

Protective Devices—Amount of resistance existing in various parts of circuits has already been explained in accordance with the amount of resistance in the various branches of a circuit. It will be apparent that the resistance at that point where a short circuit will be so much less than on any other path which the current might take, that all the current will be diverted. The source of current supply is then said to be on a dead short circuit. There will be accordingly a rush of current through this shorter path of low resistance that would burn out the windings of the generator or ruitn the batteries, whatever the source of supply might be, unless means is taken to prevent it. The provisions made for protecting the apparatus in a circuit takes various forms, depending upon the method by which they are designed to operate, although their function is the same in every instance, that is, to open the circuit immediately in case of direct current. To protect the generator fuses and circuit, breakers are employed on each side of the line. The circuit breaker consists of a solenoid, plunger, and spring - controlled switch. The switch is normally closed against the tension of this spring, and the winding of the solenoid is such that, with the normal current passing, the plunger does not move. With an increase above a certain limit, however, the plunger is strongly drawn up through the solenoid or by the solenoid, tripping the release of the spring and causing the circuit to open automatically. Fuses are a second line of defense and their function is to open the circuit in case the circuit breaker fails to operate. They consist of soft alloys which will melt at low temperatures. The amount of fuse wire employed is closely calculated to a safe percentage above the normal current before reaching the fusing point, so as to permit the circuit breaker to operate if it will. Circuit breakers are employed because they act more quickly than fuses and because the necessity of replacing the fuses every time the circuit is overloaded, is thus avoided. Fuses are made in various forms, of which are the cartridge, plug or plain fuses.

For reasons which have already been explained, a direct current motor above a certain minimum size cannot be started by simply throwing a switch, which would sent the entire current in the circuit, through the armature of the motor at once. The motor must be started by increasing the current gradually through a resistance, and it is also necessary to prevent the full load of the current from reaching the motor in case the circuit has been broken, and the current turned on again. To prevent this, the starting box or rheostat is provided with a no-voltage release. The switch handle of the starting box carries a soft iron armature which makes contact with the pole piece of an electro-magnet on the box when the switch is in the full position. This electro-magnet is wound to a high resistance and is connected in shunt with the main circuit so that it depends upon the voltage of the latter to excite it and attract the armature of the switch handle against the pull of the spring on the handle. When the circuit is broken the electro-magnet loses its attraction for the armature, permitting the switch handle to be pulled back by the spring.

WITH THE RADIO SCHOOL AND CLUB

Tomorrow night's class is the code class. Please remember that there are no longer any code classes held on Thursday. There were a couple of boys up at the office Thursday night wanting to know what was the matter, and as it only takes a couple of minutes to glance at the radio page, do it every night and you will know just when the classes are to be held and what is to be taken up, whether it is code or theory. The next theory class will be this coming Friday night. Notifications of studies, change in program, code class, etc., are in this column every night.

WOULDN'T IT BE GREAT

PRESS-NEWTON RADIO STATION

There has been another little delay in the erection of the aerial, as there was a dispute as to the heighth of the aerial. However, it was finally decided that a 60-foot pole be erected on top of the front section of the Press building and a 75-foot pole will be erected on the rear. This will make the aerial a total height of approximately 80 feet from the ground. Of course, all of these little delays just postpone the opening date a little longer, but it is worth it to make the station as nearly perfect as possible. Watch the radio page for the progress on the station, and no doubt the opening date will be on the front page of the paper.

QUESTIONS—ANSWERS

Q. What is the price of a detector tube and what is necessary to operate one? F. L.

A. The price of the radiotron detector tube is $5, and in addition to the tube you would need a 6-volt storage battery, a 22½-volt "B" battery, a 3-ampere rheostat, a grid condenser and possibly a grid leak. Also your bulb might possibly require more than 22½ volts, which would mean that you would have to purchase one of the 43-volt size.

Q. Can I use a detector tube with a loose coupler, a variable condenser and phones? W. T.

A. Yes. This question has been asked three times inside of the last few days and has been answered in the paper all three times. The hook-up for this equipment may be obtained in any of the text-books.

RADIO SIDELIGHTS

On Mt. Blanc a wireless equipment has been developed which will resist the sudden atmospheric changes here that usually put ordinary equipment out of business. Climbing parties are cautioned before making the ascent to equip themselves with radio apparatus so that help may be obtained from the observatory in emergencies.

A London inventor has perfected an automatic transmitter for the use of airplane pilots. They can send certain messages by simply pressing a button.

The Farmers' Loan and Trust company of New York recently announced that arrangements had been made with the London Joint City and Midland bank, Ltd., so that wireless payments may be made at any time to passengers enroute on board the Cunard liners Mauretania, Aquitania and Beregaria.

The management of the Globe theater, New York city, announces installation of a radio receiving set in its box office to take care of all radio requests for reservations. The system is to be used principally for the receiving of reservations from passengers on board incoming ships. London has been using the same system for the last year in connection with the London-Paris air route.

A French scientist has invented a system of determining the presence of mineral matter and liquids below the surface of the earth by means of radio. He employs a combination of Hertzian waves and cathodic waves and his apparatus consists of two parts, the transmitter of which is worked by an electric current of 110 volts. Recent trials of the apparatus enabled the inventor to localize the presence of oil over 300 miles, and he has since verified the accuracy of the find on the spot. Each mineral deposit or liquid registers differently at the receiving end, enabling the operator to know just what particular substance has been located.

War on the sale of worthless radio apparatus was declared the other day by the National Radio chamber of commerce at its meeting in New York city. The chamber resolved to make "every effort to stop the sale of inferior supplies."

The navy department is planning a large radio exhibit, showing the navy's progress with radio, at the coming New York radio show, which opens at the 71st Regiment Armory on May 22. The radio public can be assured that this exhibit will be one of the most attractive as well as interesting and instructive, booths at the show.

The great transatlantic radio stations breath no less than 200 kilowatts of electrical energy into space. Two hundred kilowatts is roughly equal to 270 horse-power.

RADIOGRAMS PUT ALL RECORDS FOR SPEED TO SHAME

The word is spoken in a European capital and with the speed of lightning it is written on a typewriter in the central radio station at 64 Broad street, New York. This is the latest marvel of radio, according to the Radio corporation in an announcement which says: "All transatlantic transmission and reception of radiograms is now concentrated in one room in the central radio office, 64 Broad street, New York city, providing direct communication between the financial district and the European stations.

"Radiograms travel at the speed of light, and from the moment of transmission in Europe to direct typewritten reception in New York, no hand relaying is involved."

HOW TO TEST HEAD RECEIVERS

To test the continuity of the circuit of a pair of telephone receivers, touch the tips of the phone cord to the tongue. If the receivers are in reasonable good condition a slight click will be heard. If the response in one receiver seems to be weaker than in the other, examine the diaphragm of the receiver giving the weakest response to see if it is bent toward the pole piece. Try turning the diaphragm over if such is the case. Be careful when the diaphragm of a receiver is removed that the leads of fine wire from the megnet spools to the connecting blocks do not become broken in handling.

The two receivers are connected in series and to check either one separately, short circuit the tips of the cord leading to the other receiver just outside of the case. Should it appear that there is an open circuit in the cord, short circuit both receivers where the cord enters the case and with a buzzer or lamp connected to the tips on the end of the cord test for an open circuit.

A family tree is of no use to the lumber dealer.

Season Tickets at $2.50

(Good for 13 full programs)

1. Season tickets after next Thursday, the first day, will cost $3.
2. If you attend on single admission tickets, the 13 programs will cost $8.55.
3. These four attractions:

FRANCES INGRAM, Opera Star
OPIE READ, Humorist and Novelist
"CAPPY RICKS" (Play)
GILVAN OPERA CO.

will cost $3.50 on single admissions; three of them will cost $2.75; Frances Ingram alone would cost $2.50 in Los Angeles; therefore the economy of the Season Ticket Plan is clear.

4. If you attend on single tickets, you do not assist the local business and professional men, who make Chautauqua possible.

5. Season tickets for grammar grade children admit them to all 13 programs and Junior Chautauqua. Price $1.00. High School tickets for all programs cost $1.50.

6. Season tickets at principal stores and banks on Brand boulevard, and with guarantors named below.

TUJUNGA SCHOOLS TO HAVE CLOSING PICNIC

June 9 Is Set as Last Day of School for Local Pupils

TUJUNGA, May 23.—Plans for a closing day picnic for the pupils of the Tujunga school have been approved by the school board, and it is expected that the picnic will be held in Monte Vista park. June 9 has been set as the closing day for the school.

At last night's meeting of the board routine matters were discussed, and the matter of filling the position of principal, recently left vacant by the resignation of G. Wheeler Smith, who had been elected for the coming year, was taken up.

If the present average attendance keeps up it is probable that there will be seven teachers next year, which will greatly relieve the overcrowded condition experienced during the past year.

Legion Meeting Tomorrow Night

A meeting of the American Legion post will be held tomorrow night in Legion hall. Hereafter the Ladies' Auxiliary will meet every Wednesday evening.

Brush Fires Start

One of several brush fires which have been reported recently started yesterday at the corner of Monte Vista and San Ysidro streets.

A law went into effect May 1 making it necessary to obtain a permit to burn brush or rubbish. Permits may be obtained from Leo Lang, fire warden, and it is believed that the control thus gained will aid materially in eliminating costly and dangerous fires during the coming dry season.

KAMAUS BAKE SHOP OPENS

One of the new business establishments in Glendale is the Kamaus Bake Shop, 625 South Brand boulevard. The proprietor of this establishment is a baker of many years' experience, and for the past few years has been conducting a bakery in St. Louis, Mo.

Everything in the way of bakery goods will be made and sold by the Kamaus Bake Shop. In everything that is turned out by this concern nothing but the finest material will be used. Bread of the better type will be the specialty of this company, and all kinds of cakes, pies and fancy bakery goods will be turned out. The years the manager of this firm has been in the baking business have taught him how to do all kinds of baking. At all times the Kamaus Bake Shop will be open to the inspection of the Glendale people. Everything about the plant will be sanitary in the extreme and every bit of bakery goods turned out will be as clean as it possibly can be.

FIRST NATIONAL FOLKS PICNIC

About 39 employes of the First National bank enjoyed a picnic Saturday afternoon and evening at Brookside park. They played baseball and other games in the afternoon, and after a delicious supper, sat around a large bonfire and told interesting stories and sang songs.

DULL HEROISM'S POOR REWARD

You are a hero in the people's eyes
If you help the home team to win the prize,
Or if you win the auto race or do
Something like that which is no good to you
Or anybody else, but if you stay
At home and do the chores up every day
And carry ashes out and split the wood
Nobody thinks that you are any good
Except perhaps your mother, for she goes
And sees the wood box full and then she knows.

And O it makes you sad and gives you pain
To know your humble toil will never gain
The friendship of a girl as much as if
You'd knocked the other football player stiff
And won the game and she would come and try
To kiss your hand and nobody knows why.
But she might see you working every day
And never try to kiss your hand or lay
A wreath upon your head and try to make
You love your daily toil for her dear sake.

Or if you speak to her with a black eye
Which you got chopping wood she'll pass you by
With cold and haughty stare, but if it came
From your great tackle in the football game
She's honored with your presence and she goes
Down the main street so everybody knows
She is a friend to you; but if you do
The chores at home she does not notice you
And like the flower you blush unseen and wear
Your sweetness out upon the desert air.

MONTROSE LINE PROVIDES CAR FOR CLUB

Picnic of Business Women's Club to Be Given Special Facilities

When Mr. Hatch, president of the Glendale-Montrose Railroad company learned of the picnic to be held in Verdugo Woodlands by members of the Business and Professional Women's club tonight, he agreed to send an extra car to accommodate the picnickers. The regular run will be made at 5:50 p. m., the extra will leave at 6:05 and there will be another car at 6:30.

It is hoped that nearly all the members can take the earlier of the cars mentioned, so that the picnic supper may be served at 6:30.

The picnic is to be held in the palm thatched pavilion of the Newport company in the picnic grounds near the foot of the hill on Glorietta street, where guests will leave the car. It is in a charming spot commanding a view of the canyon and with all conveniences for such an outing—chairs, tables, water, electric light and a picnic fire.

Members can bring all the friends of either sex for which they will provide lunch and it is expected not less than 100 will be present. Hot coffee will be served.

Dr. Laura Brown, chairman of the social committee will be in charge, and officers will be installed with original ceremonials by their predecessors in office.

ART SHOWN IN JEWELRY DISPLAY

One of the most artistic window displays ever seen in Glendale is the present display of Arthur H. Dibbern, 121 North Brand. This display follows as closely as possible the correct lines of an Italian Renaissance, and it is known as a Milano display.

The important feature is the background, which is a small reproduction of a cathedral. It is composed of a half-dome exterior, surrounded by an altar, at either side of which are wings representing shrines or chapels. These wings are constructed in panels with four recesses or niches. Directly in front of each of these niches is a miniature Renaissance table.

Since being placed on display this window arrangement has created a great deal of discussion and hundreds of people are availing themselves of the opportunity of seeing this remarkable display.

A Year Ago Today

From Glendale Daily Press, May 23, 1921

Representatives of the federated missionary societies of Glendale met at the Baptist church this morning, the session opening at 10 o'clock with Mrs. O. L. Kilborn vice-president, in the chair.

The Alpha Omega class of the First Christian church will be entertained tomorrow evening by Miss Katharyn Weisling at her home, 621 East Colorado stret.

A meeting of the Salvation Army Drive committee has been called for this evening at 7:30 at 104 East Broadway. Plans for the best possible means of carrying on the campaign will be made and everyone whi will assist in carrying on this most worthy cause, is invited to be present.

Building permits for the month to day to date total $331,545. The total for the year is $1,539,886.

VALENCIA ORANGE SHOW STARTS TODAY

Spring Event Will Be Continued Until May 30th

ANAHEIM, Calif., May 23.—The big orange event of the spring will be held at this city beginning today and lasting until May 30—the California Valencia show.

The show will be housed in five large tents. As an added feature of the show, one of the tents will house an automobile exhibit, giving the people of the orange belt a chance to get an eyeful of the latest models of practically all the well-known makes of machines.

The main tent will house many gorgeous feature exhibits. These displays will be entirely made of oranges, and the entire tent will be filled with the beautiful fruit. Several million oranges will be used in preparing the exhibits.

Another tent will house the industrial exhibit, showing all sorts of implements and other articles used in citriculture.

A baby welfare department, an art exhibit by the Laguna Beach Art association valued at thousands of dollars, grand opera singers of renown, and many other attractions are included in the show.

POPE & TOLLETT DECORATE STORE

The elaborate and beautiful improvements that have been under way at the Pope & Tollet confectionery for some time have been completed and this store is one of the most attractive of its particular line in Glendale. Two 8-feet plate glass windows have been installed. These are of the case type and the floor and back are in satin-finish gum, these comprising two of the most attractive windows in Glendale.

Four beautiful booths have been erected on either side of the confectionery, each of these having a table, the top of which is of natural finish gum. At the rear of the room are two family or party tables, where eight people may be seated at a time. The room has a nine-foot wainscoating, beneath which panel work and Tiffany tinting. In each of the booths is a hanging wall light with blue-tinted globe.

The candy department of this confectionery has been enlarged. A three-tire, seven-foot plate glass showcase has been added to the former equipment. The improvement work done by this concert itself cost something like $2500. This firm intends to install, in a fall, a complete candy-making department, where it will make all the candy that it offers for sale. This will be modern in every way.

W. W. McElroy, owner of the building in which the Pope & Tollett confectionery is located, has just spent about $16,000 in the improvement of his building. The work has been under way for the past 60 days, and is now nearing completion.

BANKING FOLKS HOLD PICNIC

Several employes of the Brand boulevard branch of the Los Angeles Trust & Savings bank motored to Echo park Sunday, where they enjoyed a picnic lunch. In the evining they drove on to one of the beaches and spent a pleasant evening.

Those in the party were Mr. and Mrs. George C. Reimer, Miss Nell Bagnell, Miss Ethel Reser, Mrs. Edith Gregg, Miss Katherine Ehlen, Misses Martha and Etta Manhke of Los Angeles, L. Small, Mrs. Thomas, Miss Ann Koonce and Miss Christine Ferris.
